Fishermen Eager to Start Work Protest Delay On New Rules

Announcement That Will Permit Them to Put Idle Boats in Action Expected Soon From Commissioner, Legislative Committee Chairman Tells Delegation

Announcement will be made shortly by Hon. S. L. Howe, Fisheries Commissioner, which will enable fishermen and canneries now tied up awaiting action on his proposals, to commence operations, Col. Nelson Spencer told the fisheries committee this morning.

The information comes after fishermen and canneries who have been before the committee in the last few days have strenuously protested against the industry being tied up while they await action on the proposed regulations.

"If we have to wait for these proposals to become law we may be waiting another month or six weeks. The fishermen are losing time. The canneries are tied up," R. Marshall, president of the independent fishermen, told the committee. J. Matherson, chairman of the Vancouver local of the independent fishermen, also protested against the time wasted waiting for the regulations to be passed.

G. S. Pearson, Liberal, Nanaimo, repeated an opinion before expressed in the committee, that the regulations should have been held over for another year rather than tie up the industry.

The point was again raised that no drafts of the proposed regulations were before the committee, and L. A. Hanna produced one draft of the proposals with a covering letter which said they were now in effect. W. R. Rutledge, Burnaby, produced another letter referring to them as suggested proposals. Mr. Twigg volunteered the information they had not yet become law.

Speaking as an independent fishermen's representative, Mr. Matherson told the committee, "We are here as a body to protest against the proposals." Answering questions he said while independent fishermen might

"What action will the Government take?" the Premier was asked.

"Legislation along the lines of the recommendations will be brought before the House at the earliest possible moment," the Premier said, refusing to discuss the subject further.

PARLEY EVENT OF INTEREST TO LONDON

Subject of U.S. Naval Conference Delegates' Secret Discussion Not Disclosed

London, Feb. 20.—The United States delegation to the Naval Limitation Conference held a secret meeting in the conference room of the Ritz Hotel here this afternoon. Every attempt was made to withhold information on the meeting, even to the fact that it occurred. A press announcement at headquarters simply stated, Secretary Stimson was in his office and was understood to be clearing his desk for the week-end.

At 2 p.m. Secretary Stimson and Senator Reed walked to the House of Commons for a conference with Premier MacDonald.

PERIOD OF DOUBT

Canadian Press Staff Correspondent
London, Feb. 20.—The Five-Power Naval Limitation Conference is taking a recess of a week in doubt and uncertainty. It opened more than a month ago with the provisional Anglo-American parity agreement as a starting point and with hope of bringing some reality into naval reductions. Much of the early optimism has disappeared. Hope now looks to limitation rather than reduction; to curbing the naval ambitions of the future rather than reducing the navies of the present.

During the few weeks of the conference's life old stumbling blocks of the past were removed only to give way to new difficulties.

France submitted demands which would give her a navy of 724,478 tons by 1936. The French fleet as at January 1 last, including ships actually in service, building or authorized, is given as 681,896 tons.

An Italian memorandum was issued yesterday afternoon. Italy does not go into figures. She wants reduction of armaments and recognition of her right to parity with the naval strength of any other European continental nation.

The conference rose as a result of the defeat of the Tardieu Government of France and the consequent necessity of having a new French delegation appointed.

REWARD UP FOR CAPTURE OF MURDERER

$500 Offered By Friends of A. A. Johnston, Killed in Vancouver

Money Held By Mayor Malkin to Be Awarded If Search Proves Successful

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Feb. 20.—Supplementing the efforts of the police to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of Archie A. Johnston, who has been held in the Seattle city jail for about two weeks in connection with the death of Mrs. Anna Nelson, a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the killer.

Chief of Police W. J. Bingham this morning announced the reward had been offered. The money will be given to Mayor W. H. Malkin, chairman of the Police Commission.

The object of the police search now is a "shoot and run" hold-up thug. That a bandit, foiled in a holdup attempt, shot the former Medicine Hat police chief and sports commission agent through the heart, then lost his nerve and fled without taking any money, is considered at police headquarters the most reasonable of all the theories tested to account for the crime.

RADIO LISTENERS TO LAY REQUESTS BEFORE PARLIAMENT

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Discussing the tremendous interest being taken among radio listeners throughout Canada in the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Radio, which will be taken up at the session of Parliament opened this afternoon, The Ottawa Citizen in its news columns to-day said:

"Dispatches from the West State Leagues of Broadcast Listeners are being formed throughout the prairie provinces with the avowed object of insisting that the desires of the 'consumers' over what the programme small consist of shall be consulted. They are making the strongest representations that the fullest attention be given to problems of interference."

"Ottawa does not intend to be behind in this respect and steps are being taken toward the formation of a similar organization."

"We are going to insist the great body of radio listeners shall have a say in what they shall listen to. The stations already in existence will make strong representations to Parliament, and if they have their way a danger exists that the consumers will not be consulted, said an interested party."

"A society will be formed which will have for its object the supporting of the report of the Royal Commission, and the making the desires of the radio public known to Parliament."

NATIVE ALASKA BAND GIVES CONCERT HERE

Chamber of Commerce Auditorium Filled to Doors By Indian Band Attraction

An audience which packed the Chamber of Commerce auditorium to the doors and overflowed into the corridors yesterday evening listened to a programme of band music from the Indian, Salvation Army Band from Alaska.

The band gave numerous selections featured by marches and rousing military airs. The bandmen showed expert training, and their efforts were enthusiastically applauded.

NATIVE MAYOR

Colonel Penock, field secretary for the Salvation Army in western Canada, was chairman of the evening, and introduced a number of the leading musicians. One of the most interesting of the Indians was Captain Newton, who had been in charge of Salvation Army work at Kake for the last twenty-five years and for seven consecutive years had held the post of mayor of his town. Captain Benson, the first Salvation Army convert among the natives of the north, was also introduced. The members of the band had been gathered from Metlakatla, Juneau, Wrangell and Kake, the two Indian races represented being the Tlingit and Tsimshian.

CIVIC GREETING

The band arrived from Vancouver yesterday afternoon, and civic greetings at the wharf by Aldermen Adam, Smith and Feden, marched to the City Hall, where an address of welcome was read to them by Alderman Adam on behalf of Mayor Anson, who was absent from the city. Refreshments were served in the council chamber and before leaving the band gave selections.

In his address Alderman Adam conveyed the best wishes of the city to the band on their initiative in making a trip to the cities of the south and also paid tribute to the work which the Salvation Army is doing throughout the world. Following the City Hall reception the members of the party were taken to a restaurant, and later were guests of the local Salvation Army at supper. After the concert in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening an informal reception was held at the Army Citadel, after which the band boarded the steamer Princess Norah on its return to the north.

VICTORIA'S RESIDENTIAL SECTION

The Uplands Exemplifies the Landscape Architects' Art

The Uplands is one of the finest examples in the whole of British Columbia of the landscape architect's art. The object striven for was to lay out the property so as to obtain residence sites having unobstructed views, and on streets which conformed to the natural contour of the land. It was sought to interfere as little as possible with the natural beauty of the property. Not only was the property laid out in harmony with the most artistic ideas of landscape architecture, having curved streets and an abundance of open spaces, but the preservation of the property as a high class residential district was secured by suitable restrictions.

Olmsted Bros of Brooklyn, Mass., who were recognized as one of the outstanding firms of landscape architecture in North America, were selected to subdivide Uplands Farm. The property originally contained 464 acres, the streets and parks comprise an area of about 100 acres, 25% of the property. Before any lots were laid out a complete topographical map was made which accounted for every tree, shrub and stone on the property. The sites were selected and the lots laid out in such a manner as to preserve the natural beauty of the property, and at the same time give every house an unobstructed view of the city and the water.

Each plot of ground is, not only a lot in the ordinary accepted sense of the word, but is a building site on which a residence can be erected, which would be far enough from the street and the adjoining lot and which will have advantage of the maximum possible view.

The streets for the most part conform to the contour of the ground and are curved accordingly. There are only six blocks with lanes or alleys, and these are the blocks on both sides of Midland Way up as far as Midland Circle, which is the end of the street car line. There is some difference of opinion as to the advantage of lanes, but, in a residence area in which the lots are in excess of half an acre in size, the expert opinion is that lanes are not desirable.

The average size of the lots in the Uplands is a little over six tenths of an acre; the average frontage is about 150 feet, so that the average depth is about 180 feet. The smallest lots in the Uplands are a little over one-third of an acre and are 100 feet deep. Together there are twenty-four lots slightly under one-third of an acre but all over one-fourth of an acre.

Archdeacon Laycock Describes Architecture to Arts Society

Cathedral architecture in England was described by Archdeacon E. P. Laycock in an address before the Island Arts and Crafts Society last night. A number of beautiful cathedral photographs, showing distinctive points such as the groining of the roof, the tracery of an east window and the beauty of columns, were produced by the speaker, who figuratively carried his hearers to York Minster and Westminster Abbey.

Westminster Abbey, he said, was still in an unfinished state, the central tower having not been completed. An interesting tourist attraction in England, Henry VIII's chapel, with its tattered banners and seats and armorial bearings of knights, was also referred to by Archdeacon Laycock. This was, he said, of great interest to the history student.

Exterior and interior views of cathedrals at Worcester, Exeter, Salisbury and Southwark were also shown. T. S. Gore presided over the gathering.

The gathering was addressed by B. C. Nicholas.

Canadian Press
New Westminster, Feb. 20.—Robert Craig and A. Shepherd, guards, and J. H. McArthur, trade instructor at the penitentiary, were dismissed from duty yesterday by instructions of the Minister of Justice at Ottawa.

The dismissals were "for lack of vigilance in connection with the escape of Robert Lay, a prisoner, on July 23, 1929," according to advices received by Lieut.-Col. C. E. Edgett, D.S.O., warden, yesterday.

Craig had served eighteen years as a guard and had been qualified for superannuation soon. The other two men were recent appointees.

HOWARD LEAVES U.S. AFTER TERM AS AMBASSADOR

Washington, Feb. 20.—The diplomatic career of Sir Esmé Howard came to a close yesterday as the British Ambassador turned homeward to England after representing his country for six years in Washington. Sir Esmé ended his official service yesterday morning with presentation of his letter of recall to President Hoover.

In the afternoon he and Lady Isabella Howard entertained for New York, to remain until Friday, when they are to sail for home aboard the liner Majestic.

An affectionate farewell was extended the retiring dean of the diplomatic corps by United States officials of state and the majority of ambassadors and ministers in Washington, who gathered at the train to see him off. Until the arrival, probably a month from now, of Sir Ronald Lindsay, Sir Esmé's successor, the affairs of the British Embassy will be conducted by Ronald Campbell, the counsellor.

The rank of dean of the diplomatic corps passed to Ambassador Velarde of Peru with Sir Esmé's departure.

BODIES OF TWO FLIERS TAKEN TO SHIP IN ICE

Remains of Eielson and Borland to Be Brought South From Alaska

Fairbanks, Alaska, Feb. 20.—If the weather permits, it is expected the bodies of Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland will be taken by plane to the ice-bound fur trading motor schooner Nanuk, off North Cape, Siberia, to-day from the spot on the Siberian coast, ninety miles to the southeast, where the Eielson plane was wrecked November 9, last. From the Nanuk they will be brought to Fairbanks as soon as possible.

The body of pilot Eielson was found Tuesday of this week by the searching party this was announced in a radio message sent by Pilot Joe Crosson from the Nanuk yesterday. The body of Mechanic Borland was found on Thursday of last week.

Crosson reported yesterday that Eielson had been killed instantly, as had Borland.

Ole Eielson, father of the late pilot, is now in Alaska, having come north to return the body of his son to the family home in Hatton, N.D., for interment. Mrs. Borland, the widow, and her two small sons live in Fairbanks. She has announced the body of her husband will be taken to Seattle, the home of his parents, for burial.

HURLED THROUGH AIR

Word of the finding of the body of Eielson was carried to the Nanuk yesterday by Pilot Harold Gilliam, who had flown to the lagoon to check up on the progress of the search. The body was found on a slight mound 200 feet from the broken fuselage and about 150 feet from where the body of Borland was discovered. Parts of the plane had been scattered over a wide area by the force of its impact with the earth. The body of Eielson evidently was hurled through the air when the cockpit and motor were torn from the plane.

While the body of Borland was found under a covering of five feet of ice and snow, only a light covering of snow concealed the body of Eielson from view as the arctic winds had nearly swept its resting place bare.

TWO SWENSONS
ARE JOURNEYING
NOW TO SEATTLE

Fairbanks, Alaska, Feb. 20.—En route from North Cape, Siberia, to Seattle, Olaf Swenson, fur trader; his daughter, Marion, and Capt. R. G. Milovzorov, Russian sea captain, arrived here yesterday from Nome aboard a plane piloted by Frank Dorbandt.

The Swensons were marooned on the Seattle fur trading ship Nanuk at North Cape since last September and are bound for their home in Seattle, while Capt. Milovzorov, master of the Soviet ship Stavropol, also ice-bound at North Cape, is going to Seattle for medical treatment. They were brought to Alaska from North Cape February 7 aboard a plane piloted by Pat Reid, Canadian flier.

Politics Said To Weaken the U.S.
Prohibition Law

Washington, Feb. 20.—Senator K. D. McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, brought the charge in the Senate yesterday that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon "has never really tried to enforce" the dry laws, and that no President since their enactment had been "really interested" in their enforcement "except for political considerations."

McKellar's accusation was contained in a telegram to more than a score of Tennessee lawyers who had asked the Senator to vote for a plan to repeal or modify the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act.

In the telegram, which he read, he declared he could not comply with such a request because he was opposed to "any weakening of the prohibition laws."

SMUGGLERS WOUND GUARD

Detroit, Feb. 20.—Walter Whittee, a coast guardman, was shot in the chest last night by one of the occupants of a rum-running boat which he and another guardman had overtaken at Detroit. The rum runners used a shotgun, inflicting wounds which were said at a hospital to which Whittee was taken not to be serious. The rum boat escaped down the river.

COTTON DUTY
APPLICATION IS HEARD BY BOARD

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Difficulties experienced by British interests in getting their representations before the Tariff Advisory Board within the one month's notice given of hearings were aired before the board yesterday during the application of the Wabasco Cotton Company of Three Rivers, Que., for extension of the existing duty on fine cotton yarns to British products.

P. W. Field, senior British trade commissioner in Canada, pointed out he had been advised by the Department of Overseas Trade that the Manchester Chamber of Commerce had an objection to the application but was unable in the time at its disposal, to make the representations it wished to make.

The applicants asked for a ten per cent. preferential duty on British made cotton yarns of fine texture, which are at present admitted free. They also wish the existing ten per cent. intermediate duty raised to twelve and one-half per cent and the fifteen per cent general tariff left unchanged.

The application was opposed by representatives of a number of thread manufacturing concerns and R. J. Deachman of the Consumers' League of Canada. He argued the proposed tariff virtually amounted to the cost of labor involved in manufacturing the product.

Macdonald Will Judgment Before
Manitoba M.P.P.'s

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—Copies of the judgment delivered by Judge L. St. G. Stubbs of the Surrogate Court here in the Alexander Macdonald estate case, written reasons for the judgment and all correspondence between the Department of the Attorney-General and the judge pertaining to the matter were tabled in the Legislature of Manitoba yesterday by Hon. W. J. Major, Attorney-General.

The Stubbs judgment recommended to those interested that an application be made to the Legislature for a special enactment validating the late Mr. Macdonald's will, known in court proceedings as exhibit four, as the legal will of the late wholesaler, whose estate is estimated to value $2,000,000. This was the will in which he made large bequests to Winnipeg charities.

TARIFFS AND EMPIRE TRADE ARE DISCUSSED

British Chamber of Shipping
Says There Are Obstructions to Commerce

By THOMAS R. CHAMPTON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent
London, Feb. 20.—High tariffs are blamed for obstruction of Empire trade in a report issued yesterday by the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom. While there has been a decrease of one-fifth in foreign tariffs despite the higher duties of the United States, says the Chamber report, "tariffs within the Empire have risen an average of two-thirds within a comparatively short period."

The Chamber points to unlimited resources for trade within the Empire and says that "what is needed is the willingness to trade and the constant exchange of both goods and services." "The shipowners' solution of Empire trade problems is founded on the basis of the broad economic interests of all parts of the Empire," it continues. "While the belief in sound commercial relations among the states of the Empire must be based on a recognition of the essential needs and interests of the home population in each case, we deplore obstructions to Empire development represented by tariffs so high as to damage the very people they are designed to protect—so high that they raise the general level of costs to the consuming public."

EMPIRE CONFERENCE
The Imperial Conference, called to assemble September 30 next, is urged to determine the principles which, in the general interest, should govern legislation and practice relating to merchant shipping in the various parts of the Empire, having regard to the changes which have occurred in the constitutional status of members of the British Commonwealth since the existing laws were enacted.

The Chamber of Shipping statement refers to the uncertainty in terms to the expression in the own industry. In order to have shipping placed on a profitable basis, it declares trade must increase from 30 to 40 per cent over that of pre-war days, while it has actually only increased 10 per cent.

WINTER LOSENS GRIP ON PRAIRIES

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—Northern and Central Saskatchewan last night experienced the most extraordinary weather in years, with heavy snow above Saskatoon and district, several hours of rain, at times quite heavy.

Warm chinook breezes, accompanied by rain, were felt in the days above all prairie districts during the day, and rapidly melting snow had formed pools of water on city streets and puddles in every ditch.

Even Churchill, in far Northern Manitoba, felt the spring-like breeze with a rapid climb of the mercury from 20 below zero to a mere minus 14.

Catholic League Hears Reports Of Many Activities

The February meeting of the Victoria Subdivision Catholic Women's League was held in the library of the Bishop's House on Wednesday evening, with the president, Mrs. McManus in the chair. Reports of the secretary, Mrs. Blair Reid and of the treasurer, Mrs. S. Hunter, were heard with appreciation and interest. The hospital visitors, Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Mahoney, reported their activities for the month and Mrs. Sabin kindly offered to continue for the ensuing month with the assistance of Mrs. H. Cannon.

Columbus social, to be held in the K. of C. Hall on the evening of February 27, the following committee was appointed to act for the league: Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. J. D. Kinsinger, Mrs. J. L. Thompson, Mrs. M. Beneman, Mrs. M. Devereaux and Mrs. Costello. A bridge and 500 party for Shrove Tuesday afternoon, March 4, was announced, as this will be the last card party before Lent it will prove of particular interest. A number of dressing sacks for use at Vernon Villa have been made and presented from the Victoria Subdivision.

Rev. Father Evans, in the course of a very interesting address, suggested ways of attracting new members to the league and a committee was chosen for the purpose of welcoming newcomers. Mrs. Couture, Mrs. J. L. Thompson, Mrs. Kinsinger, Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Masarati, under the convener'ship of the president, Mrs. McManus. As convener of membership, Mrs. Sabin introduced three new adherents, Mrs. Trainer, Mrs. J. Byrom and Miss Smith. During the month special social service activities were attended to by Miss O'Brien, rent paid, clothing provided, many visits made, and letters written and received; a patient secured resident hospital treatment. A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Regon for her hospitality to the league members at the recent Valentine tea, and to Mrs. Hardiman for her share in their entertainment.

Self-denial bags will be distributed as in former years immediately following the High Mass on Sunday, March 9. A vote of sympathy to the family of Mrs. Kellaher was moved and passed unanimously. Mrs. Kellaher having been one of the ablest and most distinguished members of the Catholic Women's League since her coming to Victoria four years ago, and whose death is a very real loss to the Catholic community.

WHY THIS SECRECY?

IF MR. TWIGG HAD BEEN NURSING A grievance against the government of which he is a zealous supporter, and more particularly against the Minister of Finance, and wanted to put either or both in an unfavorable light, he could not have gone about it more subtly than by blocking certain inquiries which were made yesterday by members of the Public Accounts Committee, of which he was acting as chairman.

Those inquiries concerned an item of $50,000 for an audit ordered by the government, and were part of the examination of a partner in the firm which did the work, by the Public Accounts Committee. It developed that the report of the auditors was completed last May, duly submitted to the government as a draft, and finally revised in August, after a conference with the Minister of Finance.

A member of the committee asked the witness if the minister directed him from time to time in regard to the report, and the chairman refused to allow the question. Another member wanted to know if, when the witness submitted a draft report instead of a final report, it was for suggested alterations, and why, if the report was finally revised last August, it was not before the House now. The chairman refused to permit the witness to answer those questions also, giving as his reason that such inquiries would elicit details of a report which was not yet before the Legislature.

The fact that the report is not yet before the House is a flimsy, quibbling excuse for blocking these inquiries. As the item of $50,000, which the audit cost, is in the public accounts, which are before the House, surely it should be the business of the Public Accounts Committee of that House to elicit the fullest information regarding the services for which this money—public money, not Mr. Twigg's—was paid, especially in the light of the fact that an audit ordered by the late government cost $13,000.

What was wrong with those questions, anyway? Why should the witness not be allowed to tell the committee whether the Minister gave him any directions from time to time in connection with the report or not, or if he did, what the directions were? Why should the chairman and the government supporters on the committee be so vigilant in blocking questions which the witness should have been permitted to answer fully and clearly, if the whole business was in the public interest? If there was a gristly skeleton to be concealed from the public at all costs, the chairman could not have guarded the closet with greater determination.

Whether Mr. Twigg thought he was doing the government, or particularly the Minister of Finance, a service, or not by choking off this aspect of the committee's investigation, the public is bound to draw inferences which are not complimentary to either—inferences which might not be justified if the facts were allowed to be known.

Perhaps even now the Minister of Finance is calling upon his tutelary divinity to save him from his friends.

LESSON FOR BIG CITIES

NOTHING THAT HAS HAPPENED ON this continent in years is more interesting or significant than what is going on in Chicago to-day. The second largest city in the United States has skidded into an utterly astounding condition. Its income has been cut off, it is upwards of $275,000,000 in debt, and it cannot borrow any more, and no permanent relief is in sight. On top of this, gang warfare has flared up again as of old, and the police seem just as powerless as ever in the face of it.

Thus, Chicago, at last, is gathering the full fruits of misrule. It is paying, in a very unpleasant way, for the fun of electing officials whose qualifications for the jobs they sought were rather less than adequate. Furthermore, the remedies that Chicago is preparing to apply, hint at very disturbing possibilities.

To cure her financial ills, a committee of leading businessmen is preparing to lend the city money enough to keep it going—provided that it can supervise all expenditures. To get its time in hand, another group of businessmen has organized a sort of vigilance committee, in the hope that it can do what the police cannot. Both of these steps are necessary. The city government has, to a certain extent, broken down. Chicago is lucky in possessing public-spirited businessmen who are willing to come to the rescue.

Yet it is not such a very great step from these two remedies to a dictatorship by big business. Carry the whole thing a little further and you would have the government of a city taken from the hands of the electorate and controlled by the bankers and industrialists. To be sure, this will not happen in Chicago. The rescue committees have no such aim in mind. Their proposals are emergency measures. But an absolute business dictatorship would follow very easily, if conditions were a little bit worse.

Take a parallel case from Europe by way of example. In Italy some years ago democracy broke down. The nation put up with anarchy for months—until a group of citizens banded together under Mussolini, over-riding constitutional limitations, and established a dictatorship which is still in power.

Now, it would be absurd to say that the same thing is going to take place in Chicago. But it is not at all absurd to say that Chicago has got dangerously near the point where such a thing might happen.

Democracy is safe enough as long as the voters stay awake and use their brains. But Chicago's plight is an example of the path that events will follow when the electorate gets careless. It is an object lesson for every big city.

FASCISM AND ECONOMICS

CONDITIONS IN ITALY UNDER THE constitutional regime which preceded the Fascist dictatorship may not have been perfect in stability; but in a telling analysis which former Premier Francesco Nitti, who also was Minister of Finance, has contributed to a recent issue of The Manchester Guardian, we get some idea of the financial problems which have cropped up in seven years of rule under the Mussolini system.

Signor Nitti sees alarming symptoms in his native country and notes that the real conditions of credit and industry are evidenced by the bills of exchange protested and the drafts not honored on the date they are due. For instance, the number in 1922, just prior to the march on Rome by Mussolini and his dictatorship supporters was 306,703, while the number in 1928 was 743,972. Declarations of bankruptcy, he says, are being avoided as far as possible, as the courts are very tolerant. But the number of bankruptcies has increased in the same period from 3,828 to 12,103. It is well known, of course, that a large number of banks have failed and the most important industries are in difficulties. According to The Bulletin Statistique of the League of Nations, last August, Italy had 1,204 bankruptcies, Germany 845, France 811, while the United Kingdom had only 357.

These figures are all the more striking for the reason that Italian industry is only a small fraction of the industry of Britain, Germany or France; so the extreme gravity of the situation which Signor Nitti calls "alarming symptoms" will be clear to the impartial observer—a situation produced, incidentally, through the suppression of all economic liberty.

Signor Nitti concludes his analysis by pointing out that Fascism has to spend lavishly; not only for its heavy military requirements, its swollen police, its six special militias, but hundreds of millions of lira on continual and very active propaganda abroad. Then it is to be noted that expenditure is incurred for purely political purposes in Austria, Hungary and the Balkans. Albania has been armed, by the way, and in this poor and ill-endowed country more than $300,000,000 has been spent. Yet Italy's stand at the naval parley in London amounts to a policy favoring still more expenditure on armaments.

MINERAL PRODUCTION OF CANADA

IN 1929, FOR THE FOURTH YEAR IN succession, the mining industry of Canada reached a new high record in output, the value of production amounting to $303,876,000, or 10.5 per cent. more than in the preceding year, according to the official estimate compiled by the Mining, Metallurgical and Chemical Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

During the year, new records were established in the output of asbestos, cement, clay products, copper, gold, gypsum, lime, nickel, petroleum, salt, stone, sand and gravel, zinc, and in the value of natural gas. The total increase in the value of the mineral output for 1929 over 1928 was $28,887,000.

Metals as a group showed the greatest gain, with a total of $151,327,000, as compared with $132,012,454 in 1928. This was an increase of $19,315,000, or 14.63 per cent. Fuels, at $76,116,000, as compared with $74,413,160 in the preceding year, showed a net gain of three per cent., or $1,703,000. Other non-metals had a value of $21,205,000, as against $18,826,692 in the preceding year. The gain in this section was 12.6 per cent., or $2,378,000. Structural materials, including brick, tile, cement, lime, stone, sand and gravel, valued at $55,228,000, as compared with $49,737,181 in 1928, showed a gain of eleven per cent., or $5,491,000.

LAKES ON THE BORDER
The New York Evening Post

There is before Congress a bill designed to save the lakes and the lakeland on the border between Minnesota and Ontario from exploitation. The bill provides that there shall be no cutting of the timber on lands of the United States within a specified margin along lakes and streams and that there shall be no alteration of water levels affecting lands of the United States except by specific authority of Congress. What is needed is a treaty with Canada, but pending negotiations it has become necessary to take steps to protect the lakes and streams of the area concerned from immediate danger.

THE SILLY ARROGANCE OF WAR
The Farmers' Sun

It may be said in extenuation of the current literature of the war that, obscure and filthy as much of it is, it nevertheless lays bare a side of the picture that has too long been kept in the background. Hereof the glory of war has held the centre of the stage. Now we are beginning to learn something of the ugliness, the futility and silly arrogance of it all. Especially enlightening is the revelation of the colossal stupidity, carelessness and inefficiency of army procedure. We read of recruits routed out at 4 o'clock of a December morning to catch a boat that a civilian would have found out was not to arrive for thirty hours, and kept standing on the seawall until fourteen of them fell unconscious from the cold. We learn of recruits putting in weeks on study on an obsolete handbook of war surgery; of a hospital unit trained to a system which proved utterly useless and had to be discarded at the moment the first evacuation occurred in France; of patients jamming the operating room of the hospitals for two days after the Armistice, men maimed for life and dying, who had been sent over the top on the morning of November 11, the day of the fighting would cease at 11 o'clock. The lies and frivolity, the passion and fear of two diplomats, princes and generals, for four years transformed peaceable millions into murderers and robbers. Those who were guilty of all this, we are assured, remained unpunished and free. Not one of all the names which will be found in a casualty list. But the people of Europe paid the bill with nine million corpses.

A THOUGHT

For he shall not much remember the days of his life; because God answereth him in the joy of his heart.—Ecclesiastes 5:20.

Across the Bay

We achieve new heights of ability—we resolve to meet crises which will never occur—we witness the opposition's bloodless victory—and we wonder at it all, considering what happened in the morning.

By H. B. W.

HAVING ALREADY broken all records for complete propriety, the House on Wednesday achieved such heights of utter blamelessness and innocence that hardened members could not recognize themselves and their neighbors. Indeed, it was quite incredible—particularly as the morning hours across James Bay had been filled with angry shouting and wails of despair.

TO BE exact, we spent the afternoon in revising the rules of the House, and as everyone is governed by the rules and scarcely anyone has the faintest interest in them, it was a very moral and sedate proceeding. Hour after hour Mr. Kirk, in the chair, read off the new rules in that rapid-fire, sometimes unintelligible style of his, and hour after hour the House made agreeable comments on them; very much like a young men's class in Scripture. In no case was there any comment worthy of record or any which in any remote way affected the people of British Columbia.

THE ONLY interesting discussion—and it was very faintly interesting to those who are on the esplanade of politics—related to the payment of members' indemnities, which is a subject with which members are able at times to feign a slight personal concern. The subject of indemnities the new rules are rather strict, as they require that a member shall actually attend the House, unless specially excused, or lose that trifling $2,000 with which an ungrateful electorate annually affronts him in return for his services.

THIS PROVISION caused keen alarm. Not at the loss of the indemnity, of course, but at the suggestion that any member would absent himself from the House unless he was prevented from attending by cruel and uncontrollable circumstances. Mr. Pattullo thought, in fact, that this new arrangement children, who had to ask the teacher if they could leave the room, and to illustrate what he meant he actually did raise his hand and apply to Mr. Kirk for permission to withdraw. The permission was not granted and he stayed.

THE PREMIER'S attitude on the whole business was interested but not enthusiastic. The Premier's secret belief is that this House has no real rules and doesn't enforce those it has. His mind dwells on the past glories of Ottawa, where rules are rules, and when the soft voice of Mr. Speaker Lemieux is raised all other voices are stilled, and members who are on their feet fall back into their chairs with a thud which can be distinctly heard in the galleries. The Premier, having long despised this House, he let the new rules take their course, more in hopelessness than in anger, knowing full well that the things he had seen on that grassy hill above the broad sweep of the Ottawa he now would see no more.

THE PREMIER did consent, however, to give the members of this abandoned assembly some sordid details on the payment of Federal members of Parliament, who, incidentally, are paid just twice as much as the members of the House. He said the members down there at Ottawa have to apply in person for their indemnities, and admitted that the British Columbia members are among the first and the most insistent to apply. They have to swear that they have attended the session and go through elaborate processes before they can draw a single dollar. Here conditions are not so onerous and no one seems to want to change them.

IT WAS at this point that the opposition achieved its first bloodless victory of the session. Mr. Twigg, who was elegantly piloting the new rules through the House, had moved that the old system of marginal notes on the rules book should be dispensed with as unnecessary. Mr. Manson moved that the old system should remain. And without realizing that the opposition was outwitting the government, the House supported Mr. Manson. A great public issue had been settled by vote of the Seventeenth Legislature, and the government, or at least its spokesmen, turned down. In the face of this defeat the government still clung to office.

WITH GREAT solemnity the House proceeded to provide for the grave emergencies which unhappily never arise. It resolved that when an honorable member will not observe the Speaker's rulings, and his "services in the House being no longer required," he shall withdraw, escorted by the Sergeant-at-Arms. At the thought of this delicious spectacle the House smiled to itself. Knowing full well that these degenerate times honorable members never withdraw from the House, and the Sergeant-at-Arms' most strenuous duty is to carry the mace. It smiled, too, as it resolved that if any member should see "strangers" in the gallery (as any member could every day of the week if he cared to look), these miserable intruders should immediately be removed and locked up, unless the House decides otherwise.

NO, THESE scenes of violence do not occur nowadays, and it was difficult while watching the placid, spinsterlike behavior of the House in the afternoon, to realize that in the morning its members could have been so obstreperous. In the public accounts

GOVERNMENT SEEKS CONTROLLING HAND IN B.C. BUS LINES

CLASSIFY HIGHWAYS

"Arterial highways will be classified having regard to the needs of each particular district and broadly these highways will have as their hub the large market centres branching out to the centres of production in a well-ordered system," the minister says. "The cities will benefit in the scheme of classification in that additional avenues of transportation will be opened, thus bringing them additional business, exchange of goods, etc. All this is accomplished without any burden on the taxpayers of the municipalities through which the arterial highways traverse."

"It can be shown, particularly in the Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island that by a programme of intensive improvement of highways coupled with fast transportation, farmers, who heretofore were struggling to make good, are well on the way to prosperity in that various farm products are shipped quickly to the canneries over main highways."

"With regard to the question of compensation in connection with land taken for highway purposes, it is felt that the time has now come when in fairness to owners they should receive consideration for the improvements that they have made to the land so taken." The minister further stated: "The amendment provides for this to be done, but provides further that the improvement to the land by the construction of the highway will be taken as 'off-setting' in part the value of the improvements assumed. Further, where more than one-twentieth of any holding is taken for highway purposes it is proposed to pay for the excess land so taken."

USED TO ADVANTAGE
"With regard to highway rights-of-way which are vested in the Crown and not required at present for the public use, there are many cases where these could be used for cultivation or other purposes with advantage to the Province. The new legislation now provides that such portions of crown land may be leased by orders-in-council."

"The act further provides with regard to hauling logs along or across highways, placing skids on highways and other such matters that permits must be obtained from the minister on arterial or primary highways. Old regulations applied to unorganized territory only."

"The minister by his servants is now authorized to remove any portion of a road found to be in excess of the width authorized by the regulations, having regard to time of year and nature of road."

"A new step in connection with the control of the public carrier has been taken with regard to the carriage of freight heretofore the act did not deal with this type of traffic. In drafting this section of the act, probably the most important feature to the department is the rather rigid control we will now have to exercise of over-size and overweight vehicles and a limitation and distribution of this traffic. With this control the department will be able to effect very large capital savings."

"The foundation of this new legislation has been drawn from a variety of sources, but the main thread running through the whole draft is the Ontario act, very greatly amended to meet local conditions of British Columbia."

"The staff of the department has had an opportunity of discussing this new legislation very fully with the owners and counsel of the more important public carrier corporations operating to-day in the Province. The draft as a whole has been received by them with very great appreciation and laudatory comments."

"Before any regulation of the common carrier could be considered, it was necessary to see to it that the Highway Act with reference to the classification of highways in order that the government could, in fairness to the municipalities, make such regulations which would not impose any expense on the municipalities through whose boundaries the common carrier operated. With this in view, the act was so amended to provide an additional classification of highways within municipalities and cities of a population of less than 2,000."

"As to arterial highways, the benefits which the developer of the land, even to the remote districts, receives will be apparent to anyone who will consider the question from the broadest view. As a problem of evolution the railways took the place of many of the important highways, and the latter, in turn, replaced the services of the railway, becoming the arteries of transportation in this Province."

"How then is the strider affected by the transformation? He is placed in more direct contact with the markets of the larger cities and villages, his products are shipped where necessary by the common freight carrier over definite arterial routes. He is, where traffic demands the same, directly in touch with passenger stages, which latter also follow the main arteries of traffic."

"As to the common carrier, this act provides for a comprehensive control of those engaged in the transportation of freight and passengers. Those who live in the country are assured of regular, orderly service both as to freight and passengers. The taxpayer will, to an extent, benefit by reason of the revenues received from this traffic, although it is intended to create an undue burden of taxation on the common carriers, but merely that they shall pay to the government a tax for the benefits they derive from the act and regulations governing the same."

"The common carrier will be permitted to run on arterial and primary highways and will be free from local taxation as long as he keeps on said highways. He will be in a position to apply for the exclusive privilege of transportation on certain routes, but always assuming that he gives satisfactory service and his rates are subject at all times to the scrutiny of the department."

"The man in the country can be assured of well-ordered transportation both as to freight and passengers. The city man can be assured of reliable transportation into remote sections of the Province by vehicles which are inspected at all times as to safety and comfort."

LADY ASTOR ON RADIO SUNDAY

New York, Feb. 20.—Lady Astor is to talk to America from London next Sunday. Thus, the first woman member of the British Parliament will be the first of her sex to speak over the transatlantic hook-up, which has been given wide use recently to carry first-hand reports of the London Naval Conference. The talk will be transmitted to the United States and Canada by the Columbia Broadcasting System and is to be in at 11:30 p.m. eastern time.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

POOR MITES HAVE REASON TO FEAR BATH

"Please write about how to take care of baby's eyes, ears, nose and mouth," suggests a reader, and fearful of slighting baby we intend to stretch that order to encompass the whole of him. The baby's bath is a daily duty. It must be done sometime in the day no matter what the temperature and quite irrespective of sickness or cold. These are additional reasons for keeping baby's body clean and not excuses for foregoing bathing.

Unless the bath is accomplished quickly baby grows irritable and tired, and a cross baby adds nothing whatever to mother's appreciation of this duty. We can't blame them much, poor mites, for heavy-handed females pulling and twisting at their arms, turning them over on their backs when they are eager to be on their stomachs, dropping them into hot water and letting soap drip into their eyes are irritants not conducive to a placid disposition.

LEAVE MOUTH ALONE!

This is an easy way for all concerned. Lay a soft blanket and a clean towel on one end of the kitchen table (where it is nice and warm) and put the baby's tub at the other end. Bath water should be agreeable at from 98 to 100 degrees by bath thermometer, which is the only safe way of testing its heat. Put towels, wash cloth, soap, powder, mineral or olive oil, cotton and salt water nearby.

Undress baby. Dip a piece of cotton in the oil and oil his nose. No poking remember, just oil it. Wipe out side of ears. Dip separate pieces of cotton in salt water and wipe each eye, beginning at the inside and stroking out. Leave the mouth alone, unless there is thrush present (and this needs medical attention) for washing the mouth does more harm than good.

Scrub the head well, especially over the top, with soap. If cradle cap is present try rubbing it gently with a wet cloth dipped in borax. Then soap baby all over and he is ready for the tub. The use of a thick towel in the bottom of the tub will make it soft and eliminate baby's fear of being dropped into the water. Tip the head back slightly and rinse off soap so that water runs down baby's back. Give him something to hold in his hand and let him paddle the water while you rinse him quickly. Tiny babies (and remember they should not have tub baths until the navel is healed, but just sponge baths), can be held firmly if mother will slip her arm around under his arms and grasp his thigh.

DON'T DIG AT THE NOSE

Lift him out, wrap him in a towel, pat him dry, wiping the folds and creases behind his ears, between his legs, under his fat knees all carefully. If he has a dry skin put a few drops of oil on the hands and run over the legs and buttocks. If the skin is oily use a sprinkle of talcum powder. The crusts in the nose will have become softened and may be wiped out without any unpleasant digging. If there is cradle cap rub some oil into this and leave it on. Slip baby into band, diaper and nightgown and get his bottle ready. The dressing can be completed after his nap.

Important Subjects Are Listed For Decision By The Parliament of Canada

Radio Broadcasting and Other Bills to Be Introduced at Session Opened
This Afternoon in Ottawa

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Animated debates on a number of subjects which have been before the public for some time are expected at the session opened here this afternoon—the fourth session of the sixteenth Parliament of Canada.

The Radio Inquiry Commission's report will be implemented in a bill to be submitted to the House. Another bill will be brought down to provide more generous treatment of returned soldiers in respect to pensions. The question of refusal of clearances for shipments of liquor destined to the United States in whatever form it comes before Parliament is certain to be debated in a very lively fashion and at some length.

Both the radio and the pensions bills will be referred to special House committees. The agreements between the Dominion and Manitoba and Alberta for the return to those provinces of their natural resources will be up for ratification, as will the agreement with British Columbia, the terms of which have not yet been disclosed, for transfer from Federal to provincial control of the lands of the Peace River Block and the Railway Belt.

The St. Lawrence deep waterways will be brought into the discussion of waterways generally.

C.N.R. CAPITALIZATION

Should the Canadian National Railways and the Department of Railways and Canals be ready to proceed with legislation for writing down the capitalization of the railways and consolidating into one financial structure the many companies which now make up the C.N.R., an involved and highly technical discussion will result. Much speculation has been written as to what these proposals will be. One surmise is the capitalization will be fixed to cover the securities in the hands of the public and all moneys advanced by the Government to Canada, but not back interest charges on the money. Another suggestion is the capitalization would be made equal to the actual cost of constructing the various lines when they were built, and a third, that the capitalization should be equal to the replacement value of the system.

NEW FINANCE MINISTER

Hon. Charles A. Dunning will have his first session as Minister of Finance, succeeding Hon. J. A. Robb, who died last fall. The budget he will bring down will be awaited with a great deal of interest as he is the first Minister of Finance from west of the Great Lakes.

The tariff Advisory Board has been working during the last twelve months on a rewriting of the steel and iron schedules. Some of the items in the present tariff have the same wording as in the time of Sir John A. Macdonald. So many changes have come about in the articles made of steel and iron that many of these items are obsolete. Accordingly, assisted by experts from all phases of the industry, the items have been rewritten. There are 188 items in the proposed schedule. The Finance Minister, in consultation with the Government, will insert the rates of duties to be applied to the various items. If the new schedule is included in the coming budget it will mean a great many changes in the list even if they do make important differences in the protection the industry will receive.

The tariff changes in the United States will be closely watched in relation to the Canadian budget.

TAX REDUCTION

Premier King has stated on several occasions the sales tax will be cut from two per cent to one per cent and has intimated the Government might even go farther than that. This will be one feature of the budget.

Hon. T. A. Cresser is back in the House, this time as Minister of Rail-

J.B.A.A. Basketball Team to Be Hosts At Dance Saturday

The basketball team of the James Bay Athletic Association will hold a dance in the clubhouse at the Gorge on Saturday evening, when they will be hosts to the three Nanaimo basketball teams, who are participating in the exhibition games to be played earlier in the evening. A very good programme has been arranged for the affair.

Arrangements of the dance and supper are in the hands of the following members of the entertainment committee: Miss M. Barnard, Mary Ross, Gwen Spencer, Messrs. A. McVane, C. Walls, G. Loat and T. D. Roberts.

This evening the annual Valentine bridge and 900 party arranged by the Association of Former Pupils of St. Ann's will be held in the gymnasium of the convent. Special prizes and refreshments will be provided and the committee has been very active in the attractive decorations of the hall. An excellent opportunity will be afforded for the renewal of old friendships, as well as assisting in the various objectives for the benefit of the school.

Both Medalists Suffer Defeat In Midwinter Golf Tournament

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Joan Hutchinson Beaten In Great Extra Hole Match

MANY Victoria fans tuned in on their radios on Monday night and listened to the description of the "Strangler" Lewis-Charley Hansen wrestling match being broadcast from a Seattle station. They will no doubt remember the request made by the announcer over the air asking some Seattle resident to telephone for an ambulance. Here's what The Seattle Times has to say regarding that announcement:

"Radio announcers should be persons of mature, unexcitable temperament. This was demonstrated Monday night at the finish of the wrestling match in the Civic Auditorium. One of the exhibitors was prone on the mat and a youthful announcer who had been in a hysteria of excitement at 'crucial' moments, broadcast thusly: 'Will anyone who is listening in Seattle please phone for an ambulance to rush to the Auditorium.'"

"What a traffic congestion of ambulances there might have been if there had been anyone listening in Seattle. And it was so uncalled for! To anyone who understands the behind-the-scenes workings of present-day professional wrestling, it was apparent that the defeated man was not badly hurt. But the spectacle had to be carried through for the benefit of the thousands of Seattleites who had fallen for the bally-hooing."

Carner's sparring partners in England were paid "a pound a round." Seems it was worth $3 to take a three-minute socking from the giant. After a little while there was a noticeable lack of sparring partners. They found pay and repair bills didn't balance. Sparring partners in England are really intelligent. In the United States the majority of sparring partners are usually punch-dumb, and don't care what happens next week if they get enough to eat to-day.

Various college professors in the United States have come out in favor of a reorganization of college athletics. It always will be that way as long as football coaches draw bigger salaries than the professors. A rather odd thing in all this reorganization clamor is that almost all of it comes from colleges that haven't been blessed with a successful sport season.

The Illinois Athletic Commission ought to start a high school for its referees and have them taught to count at least up to ten. One of the funniest things that ever happened in boxing was the recalling of the referee's decision in the Braddock-Lomski fight at Chicago. Several days after the event the commission discovered that Referee Miller added his points wrong when he called the fight a draw. Miller's notes, turned in to the commission according to custom, showed that he had given Lomski four rounds, Braddock two, and called four rounds even. In the hazy calculation of his own figures after the tenth round, he decided that points were even. The commission cancelled his decision and named Lomski winner. This is the first time on record that a referee's decision has not been "final"—in accordance with the traditions of the ring.

It establishes a dangerous precedent. The public can judge an official referee's honesty and ability for itself, and put down a bet accordingly if it wants. A referee must know his business. There is no such restriction on boxing commissioners. Most of them are political appointees without any knowledge whatever of boxing or the ring. Probably Miller was better at figuring up in his own mind which man had done the better work in ten rounds than he was at marking his ideas down on a slip of paper.

This penciling down impressions round by round can be overdone even with perfectly honest intentions. For instance, when Willie Ritchie fought Freddy Welsh in England he lost the world championship by half a point. The fight was twenty rounds, with a possible five points to be awarded each man for his work during each round. So a difference of half a point at the end of twenty rounds was a very slight thing. Certainly too slight to change a championship. Any referee in the United States certainly would have given the decision to Ritchie on the ground that he had constantly attacked, while Welsh scored most of his points by dodging, blocking and defensive tactics. American referees have a habit of giving "home-town" decisions. They let Dempsey get away with a foul on Firpo in their memorable fight and let Pancho Villa knock out Jimmy Wilde after the bell.

Now they want to put golf into the Olympic Games. Originally these games were made up of running events, weight throwing, jumping, boxing and wrestling. But in modern times they have gradually been extended to include everything that can be called a sport. Well why not golf?

Daviscourt Beaten By Carl Sarpolis

Portland, Feb. 20.—Dr. Karl Sarpolis, the grappling physician from Cleveland, won two out of three falls to defeat Dick Daviscourt, Los Angeles, in the main event of the wrestling card here yesterday evening. Sarpolis weighed 212 pounds, Daviscourt 225.

Yesterday's play in the second annual Empress midwinter golf tournament at the Colwood Golf Club witnessed the defeat of the medalists in both men's and women's championships. Bob Morrison, who led the field in the former event, succumbed before the sterling play of Clarence Brynjolfson, young Uplands star, 2 and 1, while Joan Hutchinson put up a great fight in her match with Miss Audain, but was forced to admit defeat on the twenty-first hole.

THREE LOCAL HOOP TEAMS WILL TRAVEL

"Y," Red Birds and Royals Will Play in Island Championships

Local Clubs Will Meet Stiff Opposition; Return Games Here Next Tuesday

Y.M.C.A. Red Birds and the Royals will travel to Duncan on Saturday night to meet the Uplands fives in Island championship hoop games. The Y.M.C.A. and Red Birds will be playing the first games of the home and home series for women's and men's senior "B" Lower Island honors. The Royals will oppose the Duncan Juniors in the Lower Island Junior boys' final.

The "Y" will be facing one of the strongest men's teams in the Island, and unless they improve a great deal they will in all probability take their bow from the championship race. Duncan turned in great games against the Multnomah and McCormick fives, who have just completed tours of the Island. The Uplanders defeated the latter and outscored the former team in the second half of their game. The "Y" has defeated all the senior "B" squads in Victoria. Although the odds seem to be against them the local boys are capable of pulling some great surprises, and all local hoop followers are hoping that they will do the unexpected in Duncan Saturday.

RED BIRDS IMPROVED
Also Maine's Red Birds will be stacked against a team which has handed them one defeat this year, but since that time they have improved a great deal. Should the local women drop their game Uplands they will have an excellent chance of coming out winners on the total point margin, as they will get another chance against this team in Victoria.

The Royals will be getting their first dose of championship basketball when they step on the floor Saturday night while Duncan will also be holding initiation night.

Alan Lemarquand will accompany the three Duncan fives will return to Victoria next Tuesday to play the final games of the home and home series.

"Dummy" Mahan Wins By a K.O.

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—Fred "Dummy" Mahan, deaf mute welterweight from Tombstone, Ariz., made an impressive "talk" with his fists yesterday evening when he knocked out "Arizona" Joe Rivers, of Phoenix, in the third round of a ten-round bout at National Hall. Mahan weighed 145 pounds to 146 for his rival.

The "Dummy," a heavyweight puncher built on a welterweight frame, clipped Rivers with a right to the jaw midway in the third round that dropped the latter for a full count.

Canadian and U.S. Track Stars Will Compete For Dominion Championships

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 20.—With United States competitors arriving yesterday and this morning, preparations have been completed for the Canadian inter-track and field championships to be held at the Coliseum here to-night.

The cream of Canadian track and field athletes will pit their skill against some of the best luminaries from across the border and indications point to the most successful meet ever held indoors in eastern Canada. In the spring competitions, such ranking Canadian performers as Leigh Miller and Johnny Fitzpatrick, of Hamilton, will match strides with the Newark flash, Chester Bowman, and George Simpson, Ohio State University, rated the best sprinter in the United States. Phil Edwards, of New York; Dr. Paul Martin, Switzerland; Jimmy Hall, Winnipeg, and a number of other clever performers, are entered in the middle distance races.

The pole vault, hurdles and high jump will see among others: Vic Pickard, Hamilton; Elmer Reick and Rudy Goerry, Detroit; Harold Osborne and Monty Wells, of Boston, endeavor to break the Canadian records. A speed test for women will bring together those two noted sprinters, Myrtle Cook, Montreal, and Stella Walsh, Chicago.

Six N.H.L. Teams To Continue Great Fight For Places

Welterweight Champion Is Picked at 2 to 1 to Defeat Young Corbett

Fields Perfecting a Left Hook to Use Against Southpaw Fresno Challenger

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 20.—Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, and Young Corbett, Fresno southpaw challenger, to-day began to taper off in their strenuous training grind for their ten-round non-title fight here Saturday afternoon. Both fighters were reported in the peak of condition after they had fast workouts yesterday.

Sparring against four southpaws, Fields used a left hook to the body and felled Jimmy Lee in the first round. Left hook apparently will be Fields' chief weapon against the left-hand attack of Corbett.

Corbett, slightly over the 150-pound top limit, boxed six rounds. He expected to cut his weight down to 149 pounds without difficulty. Fields ruled a pronounced favorite at odds of two to one to defeat his persistent challenger, who has camped on the champion's trail for the last year and a half.

J.B.A.A. TEAM TO PLAY NANAIMO
Three Nanaimo basketball fives will visit Victoria on Saturday night to meet three J.B.A.A. quintettes in exhibition games at the J.B.A.A. gymnasium. According to word received from J. A. Fournier, secretary of the J.B.A.A., the senior "A" men, senior women and intermediate men will be the teams which will make their appearance here.

With the Island championships just swinging into the opening rounds Nanaimo is looked upon to fight for the honors in all divisions. The teams opposing the Bays will likely be representatives of the Coast City in these play-offs, and local hoop fans will be able to get a line on the strength of the Uplands Opposition.

Against the strong invading fives the Bays will field the strongest team they can gather together, and hope to take the visitors into camp. The senior men's team from Uplands will be opposed by the J.B.A.A. senior "B" men, while the J.B.A.A. women will take on the representative women's team. The other game will find the Nanaimo Galahads opposing the Bays' second men's team.

The games will start at 7:30 o'clock and will be followed by a dance.

Wallgren Leads In Billiard Play
Seattle, Feb. 20.—Monrad Wallgren of Everett, Wash., won the first block of 300 points in the 900 points match for the amateur baltline billiard championship of the Pacific Coast, his opponent being Robert Fouts of Los Angeles, 300 to 137, here last evening.

The players will play the remaining blocks to-night and to-morrow night. The winner will represent the Pacific Coast in the National Tournament to be held at St. Louis, March 10 to 15.

Chicago Black Hawks Seeking Once More to Overtake Rangers, Will Meet Ottawa for Last Time This Season; Both Striving to Hold Positions; Leading Maroons to Tackle Lowly Americans, Who Have Been Springing Surprises Lately; Toronto Leafs Hook Up With Pittsburgh

Associated Press
New York, Feb. 20.—The struggle for places in the standings of the two groups of the National Hockey League goes merrily on through a three-game schedule to-night. Chicago's Black Hawks wage the principal battle for the American division, seeking once more to overtake the New York Rangers, while the Montreal Maroons, Toronto and Ottawa, among the international section rivals, are busy. Other teams have open dates.

Chicago and Ottawa meet for the last time this year in what is perhaps the most interesting contest of the lot. The Black Hawks have won two games and Ottawa one. A third victory would put Chicago in a tie with the Rangers for second place in their division. Ottawa is striving to hold a five-point margin over Toronto.

"Y" SET UP NEW RECORD TO WIN GAME
Score 67 Points For High Scoring Mark to Defeat Shawnigan in Play-off

Craig Leads Scorers With 27 Points; Red Birds Advance Through Default

Scoring practically at will the Y.M.C.A. won their Island senior "B" basketball game against Shawnigan by the convincing score of 67-21 at the "Y" Gymnasium yesterday evening. The "Y" boys played good ball throughout, but were not given very stiff competition. The Shawnigan women failed to put in an appearance and the Red Birds advanced to the next round by the default route. The J.B.A.A. women substituted and were defeated 20-12. John Craig and Harold Engle went on a scoring rampage in the first half of the men's encounter and each collected seventeen points. John Rowlands was the only other "Y" player to score in the first half, and when the rest interval arrived the locals were on the long end of a 35-8 score.

The second half was practically a repetition of the opening twenty minutes of play, with Acres doing a lot of damage by collecting eighteen points. Craig and Bagley added points to this total and when the final whistle blew the "Y" had amassed the record score for local hoop games for the present season.

The Lewington brothers were the outstanding players on the visiting line-up collecting fourteen of their team's points.

The team and individual scores follow:
Y.M.C.A.—Craig 27, Acres 18, Engle 17, Lawson, Rowlands 1, Bagley 4, and Ruttan.
Shawnigan—E. Lewington 8, C. Lewington 6, Gibson 1, Neff, Luckovitch 2, Cronk, Yates 4, and Pilon.

The Red Birds had little trouble taking their game from the J.B.A.A. and expect for poor shooting in the second half would have won by a much larger score. In the opening half they collected sixteen points while the Bays were scoring four. The second half was closer with the losers only being outscored 12-8.

Torrie Rennie with ten points was the leading scorer while Kay Wellburn collected six. Lucille Sparks was the outstanding performer for the Bays, collecting eight points.

Alan Lemarquand refereed both games. The teams and individual scores follow:
Red Birds—Torrie Rennie 10, B. Peden, J. Edward 2, W. Wellburn 6, D. Lea 2, B. Boyce 2, K. Atherton, M. Wilson 2, and M. Motion 2.
J.B.A.A.—L. Sparks 8, M. Sparks 2, G. Carmichael, G. Taylor 2, M. Muscutt, and G. Hancock.

McDUFFER
OF THE MISSISSIPPI GOLF CLUB
By Barrie Payne

Following the rest interval the sailors opened a sustained attack on the downhill grade. Six minutes after the whistle, Putland worked his way through and sagged the hemp with a pretty shot. The sailors continued to attack and eleven minutes later made it 3-0 when Johnson beat Restall with a low shot. Sterling play by the United's custodian saved many hard shots, but Walker tricked him with a sizzler in the corner of the goal to make the score 4-0.

Seven minutes from time, Ward again broke through and netted the Navy's fifth tally.

In the dying minutes of the game, the Saanich boys rallied and gained a goal when Stonier beat Barr.

"Bouty" McKay refereed and the teams were:
Navy—Barr, E. Plummer, Walters, A. Plummer, Dykes, C. Whyte, Putland, Johnson, R. W. Ward, and Walker.
Saanich—V. Uite-Bell, Wyatt, Cann, Geddes, Moir, Stonier, Gault, Hawkes, Anderson and Tooby.

Giants Running Into Trouble In Training Quarters
San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 20.—The New York Giants are running into trouble in their training quarters. They now have three men on the casualty list. Ralph Judd, Frank McCullough and Roy Lammie.

Judd's blistered head showed no improvement, while McCullough, a youthful semi-pro infielder from New Castle, Pa., received the first injury from actual practice. He got a splinter in trying to spear a hot liner on third base.

Art Veltman, who lives in town but has not turned out for practice, is due to get down to work to-day. He has been pinch hitting for his father as city tax collector.

Little Advance Excitement On Heavyweight Mix

"Pink Tea" To Be Staged In Effort To Pep Up Crowd

Phil Scott and Tommy Loughran Will Be Introduced at Monster "Boxing Tea" Being Held by Heads of Madison Square Garden; Injury to One of Scott's Fingers Causes Slight Flurry; Sharkey Is a 2 to 1 Favorite to Beat Briton; Fight Will Not Be Broadcast by Radio

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

Miami, Fla., Feb. 20.—If the big heavyweight fistic festival featuring the Scott-Sharkey and Campolo-Risiko bouts, is not a social success, it will not be the fault of the 600 millionaires, more or less, gathered under the chaperonage of "Big Bill" Carey and Frank Bruen, the masters of Madison Square Garden.

The ballyhoo has made a strong point of the fact that the very best people have been buying ringside seats, and to clinch matters to-day, Carey and Bruen formed an expedition to the ultra-exclusive Oasis Club in Palm Beach. The programme called for a mixture of punch tossing, informal bouts, tea on the lawn and a dance in the patio—an elaboration of the "boxing teas" that have been a novelty at this resort.

SCOTT TO ATTEND

Perhaps on the theory that something should be done for Phil Scott socially, at least, even if not much hope is held out for him in a fistic way, the elongated British heavyweight was trundled along to the party, with four-appearing-mates and his managerial staff, while Jack Sharkey stayed at Miami Beach for a day of rest. Already established at Palm Beach, Tommy Loughran, who boxes Pierre Charles in one of the preliminaries on February 27, also was scheduled for a part in the society programme. Elaborate preparations were made for a very stylish introduction of Scott and a manifestation of enthusiasm for the many art-fists who take up a lot of space in the social register and "Who's Who in America."

The second annual "Battle of the Palms" is exactly a week off, but the experts now in training here have found very little to arouse advance excitement. Damage to one of Scott's fingers caused a mild flurry, but Phil seems to have survived that. Wagering on the main go is conspicuous by its absence, for Sharkey is held at least a 2 to 1, if not a 3 to 1, favorite, making him a prohibitive choice.

Speculation is rife over the outcome of the semi-final between Victorio Campolo and Johnny Risko, with the Argentine apparently gaining support.

WINNER TO MEET MAX
The move on the part of the National Boxing Association to put Jack Dempsey back in the heavyweight spotlight as a title-contender, has not disturbed the programme of the Madison Square Garden millionaires, who plan to stage a championship fight between the winner of the Scott-Sharkey affair and Max Schmeling in New York the last week in June.

Dempsey, who promoted last winter's show for the Garden, will not be here for this year's fight. Those who profess to know do not consider the old "Manassa Mauler" has any intention whatever of attempting a comeback, regardless of the evasive statements he has made on a number of occasions.

Not the slightest objection would be entertained, however, to a return of Dempsey to the ring after the Scott-Sharkey-Schmeling situation has been disposed of. Dempsey's drawing power is not forgotten.

Bruen and Carey have reached a positive and final decision, they say, not to broadcast the bouts a week from to-night, although some plans already had been formulated to do so on a national hookup basis. Bruen announced they were prompted by purely business reasons. The only long-distance carrying device at the ringside will be the clarion voice of Joe Humphries, veteran ring announcer, who has been called to the colors.

Ordinarily it requires about ten inches of snow to make one inch of water.

LEIGH MILLER

MILLER BEAT THE CREAM OF ALL AMERICAN SPRINTERS, INCLUDING JACK ELDER, AND JIMMY DALY AT NEW YORK

The only really bright ray of sunshine in the invasion of Canadian athletes of both sexes to the annual Millrose games held at New York on Saturday, February 8, was the sensational victory of Leigh Miller, the ex-Hallifax sprinter, who carried the colors of the Hamilton Olympic Club to brilliant victory over a field of crack United States sprinters in the fifty-yard international dash. Miller came down in front with Johnny Fitzpatrick, of University of Toronto and Hamilton Olympics second. Behind them both was the man the United States athletic world was confident would take the plum—Jack Elder, the Notre Dame flyer—who, thanks to his flying start, was the one to beat Percy Williams in his indoor tour last winter. Behind him again was Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross. There were several more United States flyers in the heats of the race, but the two Canucks took their heats. Miller led all the way in the final, but Fitzpatrick had to come from behind to finish second.

How Tom Sharkey Was Trained to Meet That Famous Jeffries Crouch

Can you imagine a man taking the place of a world's champion, fighting as that world champion would, and after knocking down his adversary with a hard blow that champion would use—jumping out of the ring and running for dear life?

Jeffries, when he fought Fitzsimmons at Coney Island in 1899, fought like a crouch. This was the battle in which he took the title from Ruby Bob. The crouch was an idea of that great old trainer, Billy Delaney. Billy engaged Tommy Ryan especially to coach Jeff in this style of fighting. Sharkey was matched to meet Jeffries a few months later at Coney Island. When I went to join his training camp, I realized that it was up to us to prepare some sort of defence for that crouch.

Bob Armstrong, smart negro "heavyweight," was in Sharkey's army of sparring partners. He was no slouch. Jeffries broke his hand on Bob's head before he could beat Armstrong a year before in New York.

"Bob," I told him, "I want you to go in and box the sailor exactly as you figure Jeff will fight him. Crouch low. And when he rushes at you, stay in the crouch and hit him in the ribs as hard as ever you can."

"You mean, Mister McGrath, I'm to try to knock him stiff if I can?"
"That's the ticket, Bob. Soak him, with all the beef you can put in your punches."

"Gossiping I don't knock him cold? What's going to happen to me?" Bob persisted.

"That's your lookout, Bob," I retorted. "But do as I tell you."

That afternoon, Bob crouched when he sparred with Sharkey. Sharkey was on the plan; we wanted to teach him to look for the unexpected. Sharkey moved in. Armstrong sped up, and bam! he sunk his fist a foot into Sharkey's ribs. He put everything he had on that punch.

Sharkey keeled over on his hands and knees, the wind knocked out of him. Surprise gave way to anger. But before he could scramble to his feet, Armstrong was out of the ring and out of the building.

I told you Armstrong was smart. This proved it. Sharkey was wild enough to kill all us. With a curse, he ran out looking for Armstrong—in vain.

Late that night, Armstrong phoned me.
"Come on back," I told him. "You shouldn't have left."

"Did you talk to Mister Sharkey and explain?" he countered.
I told him that the deck scrubber was completely pleased; that we convinced him Armstrong really had done him a big favor, by showing what Jeffries could have done if Sharkey had left himself similarly open in the fight.

"Fin coming back, Mister McGrath?" Bob phoned, "but I'm sure glad I gave you plenty of time to explain."

Bobby Jones On Golf

To learn that the Royal and Ancient has at last legalized the steel shaft for play in Great Britain and her colonies is exceedingly gratifying news. The move makes for uniformity throughout the world of the implements of the game, a thing which is greatly desired and even necessary if international competitions are to be fostered.

There is only one conceivable argument against the use of the legalizing of the steel shaft. It is that it gave to its user an advantage in actual play—and this advantage must have resulted not merely because steel was more reliable than hickory, but because it bestowed upon the player of itself a greater length or a greater accuracy. Unfortunately for themselves the manufacturers of steel shafts made the road to official sanction difficult by the claims made for their products. At the beginning it was said that the superior spring of steel and the entire absence in it of the torsional weakness found in the hickory shaft were great advantages.

The first adding yard to the flight, and the latter making possible far greater accuracy. It is interesting that the more recent developments in the steel shaft line are mainly concerned with approximating the feel and action of hickory as nearly as possible, even to restoring the torsion.

TIMING OF STROKE
OFFERS WITH STAFFS
I admit that I am far from up-to-date on the steel shaft, not having struck a ball with one for at least a year. Unquestionably they are better now than they were at that time, and it is conceivable that as the qualities of the steel are made to approach more closely those of hickory, more and more players will be converted to the use of them. I can think of no reason why steel shafts should not be every bit as effective as hickory, and probably more easily obtained of the desired spring and strength, but they do alter somewhat the timing of the stroke—at least those I have tried.

This is one reason that the recent move of the Royal and Ancient is important from the standpoint of international relations. It would not be so if steel and hickory were in all respects the same. I should think then the only question in the case would be of the sufficiency of the supply of good hickory. But any number of our foremost golfers have shown preference for steel shafts. The rest of us are prepared to concede whatever playing advantage steel gives them, but it is a hardy that they should be required to make the complete change in order to compete abroad. If they prefer the feel and action of steel to hickory, then by all means let them have steel.

It has always been my belief that the spring and degree of stiffness of the shaft has only to do with the timing of the stroke. By actual trial I have hit drives as long with a shaft made of a section of a buggy-whip as with the finest wood obtainable—provided always that I managed the timing correctly. The length of a drive depends upon the velocity of the club-head and not upon the strength of the shaft. It is an advantage to be able to use the shaft which feels best, but that is an aid to which everyone is entitled. (Copyright, 1929, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WEST ROAD TO PLAY COLLEGE
Perfect Sight—
Without Glasses

Three School Basketball Teams Will Play Suburbanites Saturday Night

Three Victoria College hoop teams will journey to West Road Saturday night to try conclusions with the suburbanites in a trio of exhibition fixtures. The College intermediate "A" men will take on the West Road senior "B" squad, while the second team from the educational institution will oppose the West Road intermediates. The College women, who made such a splendid showing against Varsity during invasion week, will try to humble the strong West Road women's team.

In the feature game the West Road men should take the Collegians into camp, as their weight and experience, coupled with the advantage of their home floor, gives them every chance for a win. The College five are what may be termed in and outers; playing good ball one night and poor ball the next. It is expected they will be strengthened by the addition of Tervo, White and Chapman.

The West Road women's team is composed of practically all Harmony players, and so far this year have proved themselves unbeatable on their home floor.

SKOLLEN THE FAST GAME
The intermediate game should be fast and furious from the starting whistle, with the home team having the better chances for a win. Tommy Peden and his band of hoopsters are dead shots in their hall, and if they have an on night it will be curtains for the visiting five.

The games will be followed by the usual dances.

The complete card follows:
7:30—Intermediates.
8:15—Women's events at the club's 9:00—Seniors.

Bill Cissell May Be Moved to Second Base This Season

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.—Bill Cissell, the Chicago White Sox $123,000 shortstop, may be moved to second base this season, Manager Donie Bush has indicated.

Cissell has been worked at second base every day since the Sox arrived, and Bush has spent considerable time with him. Irving Jeffries, recruit infielder, has teamed with Cissell at shortstop. Whether this arrangement will get anywhere depends much upon the work of Bill Hunsfield, who will arrive with the second squad.

Bush planned to humor the pitchers by letting them indulge in batting practice.

REGULATIONS FOR BROKERS RECOMMENDED

B.C. Delegate Returns With Report of Toronto Conference

Five recommendations made by the inter-provincial conference on brokerage and exchanges at Toronto have been brought back by H. G. Garrett, registrar of companies, who attended as the representative of Attorney-General Pooley.

The conference sat for five days with representatives from Alberta, Manitoba, Quebec and Saskatchewan in attendance. The following recommendations arose out of the conference:

THE RECOMMENDATIONS

1. That the uniform Securities Frauds Act as agreed by the conference should be in the form hereto attached and that the provinces should be requested to amend their respective Securities Acts to conform with the uniform act.

(For convenience, the Ontario Act has been treated as a basis and the amendments suggested refer to this act. Each province will have to make its sections dovetail into the legal machinery, legal procedure and other conditions which are peculiar to itself. In principle, however, the acts will be uniform.)

2. Regulations passed under the powers of the Securities Frauds Act should be, in as far as possible, uniform and that the provinces should communicate with each other with the view of bringing into force certain regulations affecting brokers and exchanges that will bring the same trading conditions in vogue in each province.

3. As some of the provinces have no stock exchanges, that the representatives of each province where there is one or more stock exchanges confer with these exchanges with the view of having them put into force rules for uniform trading. It is suggested that in some way the rules of the exchange or the regulations of the Securities Frauds Act should deal with the points set out in the attached memorandum.

4. That the Criminal Code be amended as follows:

(a) That every person is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to seven years' imprisonment and to a fine who, being an individual or a member, or responsible official of a corporation, partnership, or a director, officer or responsible official of a corporation, where he, or the partnership or company is employed by customers to buy and carry upon margin any shares of an incorporated or unincorporated company, or undertaking, either in Canada or elsewhere, while the relationship of broker for such customers continues, sells or causes to be sold shares of the same company or undertaking for his own account or any partnership of which he is a member or responsible official, or for the account of any corporation in which he or any member or responsible official of such partnership, or any director, officer or responsible official of such corporation is a shareholder with intent to trade against the customers' orders.

(b) It shall constitute prima facie evidence of such offence if the amount of such shares in the hands of the broker or under his control in the ordinary course of business shall at any time be reduced below the amount of such shares which he should be carrying for all his customers.

The conference felt that as all prosecutions for major offences had to be made under the Criminal Code and that there had been very great difficulty in the past in proving bucketing, that it was advisable to suggest to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa that the above section be added to the Criminal Code. The Deputy Attorney-General who attended the conference reported that it had been very difficult to secure conviction on bucketing charges, very few having been convicted in the past twenty years. In order to accomplish this there should be an addition to the Criminal Code. It was thought that with the Securities Frauds Act in force in the various provinces, giving the Crown an opportunity to investigate complaints when made, there would be a greater opportunity of getting evidence for the laying of charges and their proof in the courts.

5. That the Dominion Government be asked to pass the attached draft bill.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

A new departure from the usual run of social activities at the Y.M.C.A. will be staged Friday evening when the fathers of junior members assemble in the gymnasium with their sons for an indoor picnic. The function will include games, songs and stunts which are calculated to be of unusual interest to those present.

Members of the young men's class of the Y.M.C.A. will journey to Langford Lake for a social evening Friday night. Those wishing to take part in the function are asked to be at the association 7:30 o'clock.

SAVED BY SKILL

CHEAP RAIL FARES TO BE CONTINUED

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times London, Feb. 20.—Although the railway companies lost last year in the aggregate over £2,000,000 in passenger receipts as compared with 1928, they have decided to continue the policy of cheap fares, which undoubtedly retained traffic for the railways, and gained back some which was lost through road competition.

The public, therefore, for this year at least, will be able to count on the cheap excursion, day, and week-end tickets which it enjoyed last year. With the continuance of cheap fares, there is no likelihood of a proposal for a flat penny-a-mile rate of travel being considered. The cheap facilities really in many instances give better value. The single mileage rate for the double journey is practically the standard in some districts, as, for instance, round London, between certain hours of the day, and this is cheaper than a penny a mile, while some of the half-day excursions work out at three miles for a penny.

The last experience of the railway companies when the flat rate was reduced does not give much hope that they would be the gainers by a further reduction. The concession of a farthing a mile in 1923 involved a loss of £5,000,000 in receipts, although nearly 40,000,000 more passengers were carried in that year.

Now, however, that the railways are developing their own services and also acquiring control of existing services, road traffic may become an important source of revenue. It is, indeed, suggested that a number of small branch lines may be closed altogether to passenger traffic and replaced by road services.

bination make a change from the usual order of things:

Sister Mary's Kitchen

BY SISTER MARY

Persons who like sauerkraut must be delighted to know that the reputation research workers have given it during the past few years. Mineral salts and vitamins are supplied in abundance, and this places the cabbage product in an enviable position among foods.

Sauerkraut cocktails are rapidly gaining popularity. The canned kraut is simply drained from its juice and the juice is thoroughly chilled and used as is with whatever seasoning is wanted. If home made or bottled kraut is used, put a pound of kraut in a coarse sieve. Pour three-fourths cup cold water through it and press out the juice. Chill and season with lemon juice, salt and a dash of paprika.

SAUERKRAUT AND DUMPLINGS

An excellent and inexpensive meal can be provided if sauerkraut is served with spareribs and dumplings. This is hearty fare for a nippy winter's evening. If the dinner begins with cream soup and ends with a rice custard pudding, with kraut and dumplings for the main course, a well-balanced, satisfying meal is served. Here is the recipe:

One pound kraut, 2 pounds spareribs, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, mix and cook in water to cover and cook 30 minutes longer or until the kraut looks "clear."

Mix and stir flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in milk to make a soft dough. Drop from top of spoon onto kraut. Cover kettle closely and cook ten minutes. Serve at once or the dumplings will fall.

Since kraut is preserved in salt, no salt should be added to this dish in cooking.

Future Explorer Was Defender of Sisters

Elsha Kent Kane came home from a neighbor's and heard a great deal of noise in his back yard. He ran around and found his sisters complaining bitterly, because five boys had climbed up on the roof of a shed and were shooting paper wads down at them from blow-pipes.

Ten-year-old Elsha sturdily called to the boys to stop, though they were all larger than he was. For answer they laughed and began shooting at him.

Elsha wouldn't stand for that. Like a flash, he climbed up the rainpout and on to the roof, before the other boys realized what was happening. It was a sloping roof, and their positions were dangerous. Elsha, hanging on to the rainpout, threatened to push them off if they didn't apologize to the girls. This they did, and then he let them all get down.

Elsha Kent Kane, famous Arctic explorer, was born in Philadelphia, February 20, 1820.

POTATO KRUNCH NEW TRADE OF BRITISH FARMERS

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times London, Feb. 20.—British farmers are often accused of being lacking in enterprise, and declining to co-operate, but now this may be no longer true. They are learning to convert new measures to meet difficult situations.

For example, in consequence of the potato crisis in Lancashire, where prices are the lowest in the country, and rents are highest, farmers have decided to establish a potato crisp factory at Burscough, near Ormskirk. Already they have received orders for £10,000 worth of potato crisps, £6,000 of which are for the export trade.

The machinery for the factory will be transferred from Leeds, where farmers have been experimenting for the last two years. They have produced "potato krunch," which is a new and improved form of potato crisp, and they have received large orders from restaurants, shipping firms and hotels. The export trade will be principally to West Africa. A leading chef has been engaged, and he will be assisted by women workers.

In addition to the potato crisp, the farmers hope to produce potato cakes and potato pies. They have entered into an arrangement with a leading firm of biscuit makers to distribute the potato cakes.

In addition to this, the farmers are hoping to open out a trade in peeled potatoes, packed in transparent bags, which they think will find favor with the British housewife. Formerly, the potato crisp has been largely made from Dutch and German potatoes, it being stated that the British potato was not suitable. With the new process, however, it will be possible to use English potatoes, and Lancashire potatoes, grown in black soil, are especially suited to this process.

In the allocation of shares in the venture, farmers have been given preference, and they hope to be able to pay a price for potatoes in excess of the Ormskirk market prices.

Early Recognition Of Diseased Heart Is Vitally Important

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Much has been said in recent years of the best means of preventing heart disease, since prevention is, obviously, far more important than treatment after disease occurs. What medical science now knows about the prevention of heart disease is included in a single paragraph by Haven Emerson.

"Cleaner mouths, fewer diseased tonsils, fewer neglected decayed teeth, earlier recognition of sore throats, and quick care in their treatment as serious infection to the little child with aching muscles and joints—too young to have rheumatism—keep up and about with 'growing pains'—repeated examination of the heart after attacks of any acute infectious fever in childhood, always separation of the sick from the well; by such means will the number of acute rheumatic hearts be reduced."

LABORATORY STUDY NEEDED
The application of these measures does lessen to some extent the occurrence of rheumatic fever in youth, but does not unfortunately prevent entirely the incidence of the disease. Removal of the tonsils as a preventive measure has been to some extent disappointing, perhaps because removal is not undertaken until disease has made considerable progress; perhaps because complete removal is so difficult.

A majority of investigators are convinced that the attack on rheumatic fever must come from more and more intensive laboratory research into the causative mechanism of infection, with the possible development of protective serums or specific methods of attack on the germs that produce the changes in the tissues of the heart. Already in some communities rheumatic fever has been made a reportable disease, and those infected are segregated.

Periodic physical examination of the child is unquestionably of the greatest importance in the detection of such disease in its early stages and in its control. What little can be accomplished by early and prolonged rest is only of value when the disease is detected at the first moment. This means that every mother must pay serious attention to what are called "growing pains" to unusual fatigue and to the slightest signs of lassitude and weariness in the growing child.

NEEDN'T BE TOO FEARFUL
However, the creation of a phobia against heart disease is unwarranted, since already the strain and stress of modern life seems to be just about all that the human tissue can bear. Mothers and fathers will hesitate to bring children into such a world and to watch their growth into adult life

INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING IS ROTARY AIM

S. Barker, Seattle President, Shows Course Before Clubmen at Luncheon Here

Rotary's desire for international understanding, which is characterized as one of its dynamic forces for the benefit of civilization, was shown by Sylvester "Vet" Barker, president of the Seattle Club, in his address before the Victoria Rotarians at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day. The ceremony marked the twenty-fifth birthday of Rotary.

The Seattle man traced the growth of the organization since its founding in 1905, when four business men had banded together to form a club for their personal benefit in that business and social world. Since that date, a spirit of Rotary had grown up which, he stated, included ideals that would be for the betterment of humanity.

Tracing his own connections with Rotary, Mr. Barker stated that after he had been separated from the Seattle club for a period of five or six years, following 1916, he had perceived the international aspect of the club.

At present, he said, there were 150,000 Rotarians throughout the world. These were all imbued with the spirit of international friendship, Mr. Barker added. With such a force working for peace, its weight would be felt.

Previous to the development of this aspect of the Rotary International had been a period of great value not only to the members, but to the consumers of products governed by Rotary business men. This move had been prompted by the club ideal of following, to a certain extent, the "Golden Rule."

Dealing specifically with the convention in Dallas, Texas, last year, the speaker explained to the local clubmen the intensified development of international friendship upon which Rotary is planning to concentrate its attention this year. It was useless to delineate to the members the horrors of war, he stated, since the majority of them were thoroughgoing pacifists. The utility and waste of life it entailed. Hence, he showed the necessity for the whole-hearted co-operation of club members in spreading the gospel of peace.

Mr. Barker then compared the tremendous growth of the Rotary Club of the world in its spiritual and moral phases, to that of the Bell telephone system, showing how both had evolved to a high degree of perfection from comparatively crude beginnings.

The development of the spiritual and moral part of the club was the most important objective of the organization, the speaker added.

In conclusion he expressed the hope that this phase of the club would grow to such an extent that the children of this generation would mature with fine labored principles which would lift the world to a higher plane.

Alex. Denver moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his excellent address.

The luncheon was attended by several visiting members from the Seattle Club.

TAX ON POLES STRS PROTEST

Telephone, Telegraph and Light Companies Object to Proposal Improvement Tax Proposals Before Legislative Committee

Representatives of telephone companies protested against proposals of the Union of B.C. Municipalities to increase the tax on poles and wires before the municipal committee of the Legislature this morning.

The proposal is that municipalities be compelled to tax improvements to less than twenty-five per cent was considered without action being taken. Financial conditions of the municipalities were discussed, but such steps be taken, Mr. Baird said, but the councils were reluctant to do it themselves. Councilors admitted that the step should be taken but feared they will be defeated at the polls if they proposed it.

Mr. Baird remarked that when he put the people of the province on the subject of the tax, he had been turned down. T. H. Kirk, Vancouver, said the municipalities sought money from the government without taking their own powers to collect taxes. Where would Vancouver be to-day, he asked, if it had operated on a single tax system.

Funeral services were held this morning for Dr. George A. Warburton, retired medical practitioner, who passed away on Tuesday afternoon at his home, 1120 Richardson Street. The cortege left the B.C. Funeral Chapel at 10:45 o'clock, proceeding to St. John's Church where Canon F. A. P. Chadwick officiated. Many beautiful flowers covered the casket. The pallbearers were: Chas. Henkel, E. M. Brown, James Townley and C. Greer. The remains will be forwarded to Charlottetown, P.E.I., for interment in the family plot.

Born in 1859, Dr. Warburton was the third son of the Hon. James Warburton of Prince Edward Island, formerly of Garryloch, Queen's County, Ireland. His early education was at St. Dunstan's College, Charlottetown, and later he took his degree of M.D. at Edinburgh University, finally passing the Indian Civil Service examinations with the highest honors.

After fifteen years in India he retired and came back to Prince Edward Island, where he resided until eleven years ago, when he came to this Province.

Dr. Warburton was married twice, his first wife being Maud, daughter of General Comber, by whom he had eight children. His second wife was Helen, daughter of the late Dr. Henry Jarvis of Prince Edward Island, who survives him. He is also survived by his daughter, Mrs. Watson of Mount Vernon; one son, George Patrick, at home; and one grandson, Richard Watson. His two sons, Richard and Hugh, were killed in the Great War.

REFORESTATION SECONDARY TO FOREST FIRES

Money Spent in Prevention Might Save Valuable New Growth

Chief Forester Gives Views Before Legislative Committee

Experiments on reforestation were explained in detail to the forestry committee of the British Columbia Legislature this morning by P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester, but the government expert frankly voiced the opinion that he thought it would be folly to launch upon an extensive scheme to restock the forests of the province while the fire problem was still unsolved.

Natural regeneration of the forests was the most effective factor, and last year 220,000 acres which were as good or better than any that could be planted were among the 900,000 acres swept by fire.

Linking the subject of fires with reforestation, Mr. Caverhill pointed out there were 2,000 fires last year. Roughly 272,000,000 of cubic feet of timber were destroyed, 107,000,000 of which would probably be cut. The forest fire service was able to confine seventy-five to eighty per cent of the fires to ten acres, and the remainder got out of control. He was not enthusiastic over aeroplanes in the fire service, as frequently when they were needed most the smoke prevented them from operating. A man on a mountain top with field glasses could be more effective, and he would rather see money spent in establishing these lookouts than in the costly operation of aeroplanes.

He supported his arguments with references to other services which were eliminating aeroplanes as they built up lookout systems.

Mr. Caverhill saw no reason for great alarm in the tendency to cut smaller trunks. Substitutes for timber were now playing an important part in the building industry, and would play a greater part in the future, he thought. Pulp was being used in the manufacture of these substitutes, and this, he thought, would lead to different methods. Whereas sixty per cent of a tree was wasted as sawn lumber, ninety-five per cent was used as pulp. The change might lead to a situation where it was possible to get a return in a man's lifetime in the forest he planted.

Forbidden Plateau Pictures Arousing Interest in City

Oil paintings of the Forbidden Plateau, the new holiday playground outside of Courtenay, displayed in the windows of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, the Automobile Club and the C.P.R. ticket office, are arousing considerable interest.

The pictures, painted by U. P. Dyke and include views of Mount Edwards, mountains on the western ramparts, and alpine valleys in the area.

The Forbidden Plateau has been opened up to tourists for pack horse trips. It is a tract of approximately 100 square miles and has an average elevation of 4,000 feet. In the summer visitors may swim in the scores of small lakes and after an hour's walk enjoy snow-balling on the mountains.

Brothers Arrive On Vacation From Divergent Points

Three brothers with homes and business interests at widely divergent points in the United States are to-day visiting Victoria on a vacation.

They are E. S. Hartnell, who is a prominent banker of Providence Rhode Island; A. M. Hartnell, with extensive milling interests in Minneapolis, Minn., and M. H. Hartwell, insurance agent of Portland, Ore.

The party arrived in the city this morning from Seattle, and registered at the Empress Hotel with the intention of staying over for a short holiday.

Other visitors at the Empress to-day are Major and Mrs. H. W. Wood and Mrs. Holgate of Toronto. Major and Mrs. Wood came out to Toronto several years ago from Plymouth, Eng., and have since resided in the east. They like the west immensely and expect to spend some time out here.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, pneumonia, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CREOMULSION FOR THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

The Three Hostages

JOHN BUCHAN

Apart from a flock of maids, there was no other servant in the house but Odell. Twice I met the grey, sad-faced man on the stairs; the man I had seen on my first visit, and had watched a week before in the house behind the curiosity shop. I asked who he was, and was told a private secretary, who helped Medina in his political work. I gathered that he did not live regularly in the house, but only came there when his services were required.

Now Mary had said that the other man that evening in Little Fardell Street had been Sandy. If she was right, this fellow might be a friend, and I wondered if I could get in touch with him. The first time I encountered him he never raised his eyes. The second time I forced him, by some question, to look at me, and he turned on me a perfectly dead expressionless face, like a codfish. I concluded that Mary had been in error, for this was the genuine satellite, every feature of whose character had been steam-rollered out of existence by Medina's will.

I was seeing Medina now at very close quarters, and in complete undress, and the impression he had made on me at our first meeting—which had been all overlaid by subsequent happenings—grew as vivid again as daylight. The "good fellow" of course, had gone; I saw behind all his perfection of manner to the naked ribs of his skull. He would talk to me late at night in that library, till I felt that he and the room were one presence, and that all the diabolic lore of the ages had been absorbed by this one mortal. You must understand, I was not a pal of mine in Norway. Did I tell you I had been trying to get me a beat on the Lizard for July? I had almost forgotten about the thing. I started inquiring in March, and here's my first news.

I handed him the two sheets, and he glanced at the place of dispatch. "Cord?" he asked, with a look of surprise. "Do you want to work it out now?" "If you don't mind waiting a few seconds. It's a simple code of my own invention, and I ought to be able to decipher it very fast."

"We sat down at one of the tables in the hall, and I took up a pen and a sheet of notepaper. As I think I have mentioned before, I am rather a swell at codes, and this one in particular I could read without much difficulty. I jotted down some letters and numbers, and then wrote out a version, which I handed to Medina. This was what he read: "Upper beat Lizard available from first of month. Rent two hundred and fifty with option of August at one hundred more. No limit to rods. Boat on each pool. Tidal waters can also be got for sea trout by arrangement. If you accept please word 'Yes.' You should arrive not later than June 20. Bring plenty of bottled prawns. Motor-boat can be had from Bergen. Andersen, Grand Hotel, Christiania." But all the time I was scribbling this nonsense, I was reading the code correctly and getting the message by heart. Here is what Gaudian really sent: "Our friend has quarrelled with keeper and beaten him soundly. I have taken charge at farm, and frightened latter into docility. He will remain prisoner in charge of ally of mine till I give the word to release. Meantime, think it safer to bring friend to England and start on Monday. Will wire address in Scotland and wait your instructions. No danger of keeping sending message. Do not be anxious, all is well."

Having got that clear in my head, I tore the cable into small pieces and flung them into the waste-paper basket.

"Well, are you going?" Medina asked. "Not I. I'm off salmon-fishing for the present." I took the cable form from the table, and wrote: "Sorry, must cancel Lizard plan," signing it "Hannay," addressed it to "Andersen, Grand Hotel, Christiania," and gave it to the porter to send off. I wonder what happened to that telegram. It is probably still stuck up on the hotel-board, awaiting the arrival of the mythical Andersen.

On our way back to Hill Street Medina put his arm in mine, and was very friendly. I hope to get a holiday, he said, "perhaps just after the beginning of June. Only a day or two off now. I may go abroad for a little. I would like you to come with me."

That puzzled me a lot. Medina could not possibly leave town before the great liquidation, and there could be no motive in his trying to mislead me on such a point, seeing that I was living in his house, wondering if something had happened to make him change the date. It was of the first importance that I should find this out, and I did my best to draw him about his plans. But I could get nothing out of him except that he hoped for an early holiday, and "early" might apply to the middle of June as well as to the beginning, for it was now the 27th of May.

Next afternoon at tea-time, to my surprise Odell appeared in the smoking-room, followed by the long, lean figure of Tom Greenalade. I never saw anybody with greater pleasure, but I didn't dare talk to him alone. "Is your master upstairs?" I asked the butler. "Will you tell him that Dr. Greenalade is here? He is an old friend of his."

We had rather less than two minutes before Medina appeared. "I come from your wife," Greenalade whispered. "She has told me all about the business, and she thought that what she was doing was a safe plan. I was to tell you that she has news of Miss Victor and the Marquis. They are safe enough. Any word of the little boy?"

He raised his voice as Medina entered. "My dear fellow, this is a great pleasure. I had to be in London for a consultation, and I thought I would look up Hannay. I hardly hoped to have the luck to catch a busy man like you."

Medina was very gracious—no, that is not the word, for there was nothing patronizing in his manner. He asked me the most friendly way about Greenalade's practice, and how he liked English country life after his many wanderings. He spoke with an air of respect of the great valleys and lochs and the windy Central Asian tablelands where they had first foregathered. Odell brought in tea, and we made pleasant talk of friends as you could find in London. I asked a few casual questions about Fosse, and then I mentioned Peter John. Here Greenalade had an inspiration; he told me afterwards that he thought it might be a good thing to open a channel for further communications.

"I think he's all right," he said slowly. "He's been having occasional somnolences, but I expect that is only the result of hot weather and the first asparagus. Lady Hannay is a little anxious—you know what she is, and all mothers-to-day keep thinking about it. So I'm keeping my eye on the little man. You needn't worry, Dick."

I take credit to myself for having divined the doctor's intention. I was behaving as if I scarcely heard him, and he was things infinitely remote. Indeed I switched off the conversation to where Medina had last left it, and I shivered towards Tom Greenalade as if his practice rather bored me, and I had very little to say to him. When he got up to go, it was Medina who accompanied him to the front door. All this was a heavy strain upon my self-command, for I would have given anything for a long talk with him, though I had the sense not to believe his news about Peter John.

"Not a bad fellow, that doctor of yours," Medina observed on his return.

"No," I said carelessly. "Rather a dull dog all the same, with his country gossip. But I wish him well, for it is to him that I owe your friendship."

BEDTIME STORY Uncle Wiggily and the Frozen Dwarf

(Copyright, 1930)

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily told Jingle and Jangle, two of his little rabbit girls who were ill, a story from the frosty window glass about a giant who made a dwarf with a red nose come and live in his ice cave. This was because the giant wanted a red flower, and as the dwarf's nose was this color, it did very nicely for a blossom.

"Go on, Daddycums, tell us another story, please!" begged Jingle, when the one about the dwarf and giant was finished.

"When we listen to your stories we don't think about being sick," said Jangle. "And we won't even mind taking your medicine if Dr. Possum gives it to us."

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll tell you another story after Dr. Possum gets here and gives you medicine to make you well of whatever you have, measles or the mumps."

But when Dr. Possum came he said Jingle and Jangle had colds and must stay in their warm bed for a few days. "Don't we need to take any medicine?" asked Jingle.

"No," said Dr. Possum, as he hung his long white beard over the side of his curved tail and went along to see some of his other sick animals. "No medicine!"

Jingle and Jangle were so glad about this that they went to sleep, without teasing their father for another story. And Uncle Wiggily was glad about this, though he didn't mind telling such jolly tales of things he saw on the frosty windows.

"But it's time I hopped out and had an adventure," he said, when Jingle and Jangle were asleep.

Out of his hollow stump bungalow hopped the rabbit gentleman, still thinking of the story he had told the children about the giant and dwarf of Iceland, near the Orange Ice Mountains, and of how the red nose of the dwarf was as good as a crimson blossom for the giant to have in his cold, white, frosty cave.

All of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping over the snow-covered fields and through the woods, he saw, moving just ahead of him, a little creature, going along babbly bob. It was a strange little chap with a spot of red on his nose.

"Bless my pink nose!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman to himself. "That must be the flower dwarf from the frosty window that I was telling the story about to Jingle and Jangle. Surely, that's the dwarf! I can see his red nose, which the giant in the ice cave pretended was a flower."

So sure was Uncle Wiggily about this that he made up his mind he would hop along fast, catch up to the dwarf ahead of him, and ask him about the giant, and whether or not the big fellow was happy. For though it was only a story, Uncle Wiggily had made up his mind to find out the truth, yet, to the rabbit gentleman himself, what had happened in the cave and mysterious mountain of the frosty window seemed very real.

"Maybe the dwarf can make up some stories," thought the bunny. So along he hopped, skippity pipp, after the dwarf.

Now, though Uncle Wiggily didn't know it, this wasn't the ice cave dwarf at all. It was Slim Jim, the hungry weasel, who was playing a trick on Mr. Longears. Slim Jim, the weasel, had been hiding under the window of the room where Jingle and Jangle were ill when their Daddycums told them the dwarf and giant story. And, having almost believed it to be real, Slim Jim the hungry weasel, said to himself:

"I'll wait until Uncle Wiggily comes out of his bungalow. Then I'll dip my nose in some strawberry jam that I'll take in my pocket, and I'll pretend to be the dwarf with the red flower. That rabbit will follow me to the dark woods and I'll have him for supper."

Everything turned out that way. Uncle Wiggily saw what he thought was the red-nosed dwarf and hopped after him. But it was the weasel, Slim Jim, with strawberry jam on his nose. "Ha! Ha!" chuckled Slim Jim. "He's following me! I'll soon have him in the dark woods." For though a weasel isn't as large as a rabbit, he is so fierce and hungry, Slim Jim, that he can easily catch a bunny even as wise as Uncle Wiggily.

Meantime the jelly red-nosed dwarf, Mr. Longears hopped, and then, all of a sudden, as Slim Jim was leading Uncle Wiggily on the weasel slipped, stumbled and fell into an ice cold puddle of water.

"Oh, you'll be frozen stiff, poor dwarf!" cried Uncle Wiggily. And that's just what happened. Crawling out of the water, Slim Jim froze into a chunk of ice and then he couldn't catch Mr. Longears and Uncle Wiggily, hopping close, saw that it wasn't the jolly dwarf after all.

"My! What a lucky escape for me!" cried the rabbit, hurrying to his bungalow. And if the paint brush doesn't try to climb the paper hanger's step ladder and fall into the paste pot, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the potted weasel.

Can True Love Bridge the Gulf of Poverty and Boredom?—Why the Husband Should Take His Turn at Minding the Baby—Should Two Redheads Marry?

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young man, twenty years old, a junior in college. My parents are well educated, thrifty and very ambitious for me, their only son. I have fallen in love with a girl who is beautiful, sweet and good, but she belongs to a very uneducated and shiftless family and has had little education herself, as she had to go to work when she was very young and clerks in a ten-cent store. My family objects to my marrying this girl. My mother thinks that because she is illiterate and doesn't care about reading or studying that we could never be happy together, but I know her and I want to quit school and marry her. I believe that when two people love as we do those little differences do not matter. I think that we consider the material side of matrimony too much, and that love is all that counts. What do you think?

THOMAS L.

Answer: When an educated, cultivated man thinks he is in love with an ignorant, illiterate woman he mistakes his feelings. What he thinks is love is infatuation. It is a physical appeal that she makes to him, and that is all, for beyond that they have nothing in common.

Real love is founded on a community of interests. It is the feeling that two people have for each other who speak the same language, who have the same interests and desires, who can enter into each other's thoughts, who can be real companions. The physical element is a part of real love, but it is subordinated to the soul.

Infatuation is the shortest lived of all emotions, but real love is deathless.

You say that love is all that matters in marriage, but, alas, our ability to love depends to a large extent upon material things. It is very hard, for instance, for love to outlive abject poverty.

A young couple may be ever so much in love with each other, but if they marry without adequate support their romance seldom survives the ordeal of squalid surroundings and poor food and shabby clothes and doing without all the comforts of life to which they have been accustomed.

Even the most sentimental do not feel like billing and cooing when they do not know where the next meal is coming from, and when they are dodging creditors and are torn with anxiety about the future. Nobody wants to kiss when they are hungry. Nobody feels like indulging in poetical rhapsodies when they are overworked and harried by debt, and when they are cold and miserable. It takes ease and comfort and a full stomach to make us think about the state of our hearts.

And so you will find that the love in the garret myth has small place in real life and that those misguided couples who have undertaken to live on bread and cheese have deleted the kiss and are quarreling over the bread and cheese. The happy homes are those that have an adequate financial foundation and a menu that includes plenty of beefsteak.

Now take your own case. You are sure it is folly to consider that you and the girl come of different classes, and you think that it will make no difference in your love because you are educated and she is ignorant. It may not now in the days of courtship, when she is young and pretty, and all that you talk about is how much you love each other.

But marriage is for the long pull and how it is going to be when she has lost her good looks and when you have grown tired of asking her how much she loves you, any is she utterly sure that she never loved before and will never love again and would die if anything should happen to you?

Nothing else kills love so quickly and so surely as boredom. How, then, are you going to keep in love with a woman who is ignorant and illiterate, who never reads a book, who has no interest whatsoever in anything outside of her kitchen and her nursery and the gossip she hears over the back fence? What are you going to talk about during the thirty or forty years when you are shut in with each other for companionship?

You can't talk over her head the books that you read because they are sealed volumes to her. You can't discuss world problems with her because she never heard of the League of Nations or the war in China. You can't even confide your hopes and plans and ambitions to her because she wouldn't know enough to comprehend them.

And shame also kills love. Will you still be romantically in love with a wife who murders the King's English and makes mistakes in grammar and pronunciation, whose opinions show up her ignorance and whom you are ashamed to present to your friends?

And how about her shiftless, ne'er-do-well family who will also be your family if you marry her, who will be your children's grandparents and aunts and uncles? Will you enjoy having them about your house? Will they make for the happiness of your marriage?

These are some of the material things that you have to consider in marriage and you also have to consider that if you quit school in order to marry this girl you jeopardize your future. You deprive yourself of the education that your father was willing to give you and thereby lessen your chances of success in life, and tie yourself down with a family before you are ready to take upon yourself such a responsibility.

For the boy of twenty who marries has hopelessly handicapped himself. He has to take any job he can get if he has a wife to support and he can never hope to get ahead because it will take every cent he can possibly earn to provide for those dependent upon him.

Believe me, son, you will make the mistake of your life if you marry this girl at this time of your life. She is not suited to you. And you are too young to marry, anyway. Wait until you grow up and then choose a wife in your own class.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—We have a baby three years old and it is the cause of perpetual argument between myself and my husband. He is crazy about the child, yet he won't take care of him. Says he is no nursemaid. He works in an office from 8 to 5. I work in the home from 5 to 8, and then some, and I think that it is just as much his business to mind the baby when he is at home as it is mine. What do you think?

MRS. D.

ANSWER: I think your husband is missing a lot of fun in not minding the baby an hour or so each evening, because there is no other companion so fascinating at a three-year-old. They say cuter things than any grown-up can think of and there is nothing more absorbingly interesting than watching their little minds unfold and getting their first viewpoint on life.

Besides that, if your husband took care of the baby, he would get a chance to get acquainted with him and establish a friendship that would be a joy to him so long as he lives. And that is something that has to be done now or never. Of course, every father thinks that he is going to pal up with his son and looks forward to their being companions when the boy is grown, but the trouble is that you can't get to be friends with your children when they are grown. You have to do it while they are still in the cradle and while they hang on to your fingers and while you can fool them into thinking that father is the greatest man in the world and the fountain of all wisdom.

Perhaps, though, the fault is partially yours. Maybe you are one of the mothers who when the father takes the children out, give them a thousand directions and never really trust them. Maybe you say: "Don't let Junior sit on the grass," and "Don't let Junior get his feet wet," and "Don't give Junior any candy," etc. You can't blame a man for not wanting to mind the baby when mother is bossing the job.

Anyway, dump the baby on husband and go off and leave him. He will like it after he gets used to it.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Do you think it advisable for two red-headed people to marry?

RED HERSELF.

ANSWER: Depends on whether both of you have red-headed tempers. If you have, I should think it advisable for each of you to marry somebody with a more pacific disposition. But it isn't the color of your hair that matters in marriage. It is brains and character and having enough common sense to give and take and make the best of each other.

NEW AUSTRALIAN MIGRATION PLAN

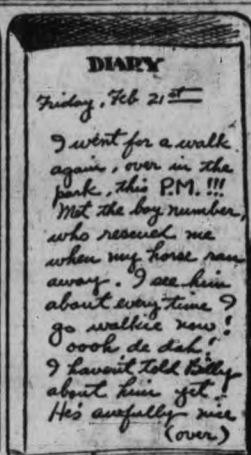

Canadian Press Cable Via Reuters' Canberra, Australia, Feb. 20.—Premier James H. Scullin announced yesterday the Federal Government's intention to withdraw the right of state governments to forward their migration nominations direct to London. In future all requests for migrants and statements of openings will be handled by the Commonwealth authority. In the past a large number of state-assisted migrants have been unable to find suitable employment, and to deal with this matter and other points arising a consultation committee will be appointed, under agreement with the British Government.

WILL DISCUSS MEAT DUTIES

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The Canadian-Australian Trade Treaty, extended by order-in-council to New Zealand, will be discussed before the Advisory Board on Tariff and Taxation March 12, when the Southern Alberta Sheep Breeders Limited of Lethbridge will request restoration of the duties on imported meats to the basis which obtained before the negotiation of the treaty.

TRUSTEES FIND THEMSELVES AT ODDS ON SITE

Saanich School Board Members Ignore Chairman's Advice
Trustee Tones Resigns But Is Voted Back to Office

Even the abrupt resignation of Trustee William Tones from the chairmanship of the Saanich School Board last night proved insufficient to bring the Trustees into unity on selection of a site for the Saanich High School. Nearly two hours of debate preceded the chairman's action, which followed tabling of a report presented by Trustee Tones which recommended acceptance of Rock Street Park of nearly ten acres, freely offered by the council with a pledge of almost unanimous support for the building by-law.

The board unanimously decided to accept the resignation of its chairman and insisted he resume his office. When doing so Trustee Tones said he had desired to give someone else an opportunity to unify the board behind an alternative scheme, which would carry the support of the Council.

GRANT IS CUT
The trustees were informed by Dr. S. J. Willis, Deputy Minister of Education, that the government would allot

Saanich a grant of twenty-five per cent of the cost of a high school, with a maximum of $20,000. The trustees recalled that in March last a grant of one-third the cost was pledged with a maximum of $25,000 and that last December the Government contribution had been placed at $30,000. Trustee Tones, supported by Trustee Jeune, strongly recommended use of Rock Street Park, but objections were voiced on many grounds by Trustees Briggs, Brooks and Pyrie. Trustee Jeune insisted that investment of $13,000 would be required to buy and prepare a favored site, and that would leave only $7,000 of the Government's grant for use in building.

May Temperatures In United States

Chicago, Feb. 20.—The sap began to flow yesterday from Point Loma to Plymouth Rock. Spring crashed the gate a month ahead of her engagement and mid-May temperatures prevailed from coast to coast.

The mercury that had cringed several steps below zero in the near northwestern states a week ago climbed from obscurity to the eminence of the upper sixties and seventies yesterday. The snows of yesterday week were rivers yesterday, and the early bird and even the worm found weather conditions satisfactory for their 1930 debut.

The advent of a premature spring came at once to virtually the entire country. California vaulted valley temperatures as high as 86, and it was 86 at Los Angeles, Billings, Mont., had 86 and Helent at 84. Thermometers at Denver registered 61 and at Oklahoma City 72.

NEW RULES FOR HOUSE

Considered By B.C. Legislature Sitting in Committee Yesterday

Except for a little annoyance voiced by H. D. Twigg that there should be any questions raised after the hard work of the committee, the new rules, which when adopted will govern the proceedings of the British Columbia Legislature, were harmoniously considered in the House yesterday.

After nearly three hours progress was reported and the rules will be considered again. Mr. Twigg, when the House opened and immediately went into committee of the whole, told the members that the proposed new rules had been gone into deeply by the committee named for the purpose. Several suggestions offered by Mr. Beauchamp, Clerk of the House of Commons at Ottawa, to whom they had been submitted, had been incorporated.

A clause calling for a resolution of the House to abrogate members from non-attendance was stood over. A. M. Manson, K.C., fought unsuccessfully for the retention of the hour-glass as the time signal on divisions, and a rule allowing not less than two minutes and not longer than five carried. A new rule far as British Columbia is concerned gives the Sergeant at Arms power to put a disorderly person out of the gallery of the House.

Mr. Twigg, as Mr. Manson spoke to many of the rules, protested he was bringing in a minority report, but the protest was swept aside when T. D. Pattullo pointed out the Attorney General suggested each rule be read. Mr. Manson questioned the advisability of a rule forbidding any member who had voiced an opinion in the House on a subject being prohibited from sitting on a special committee that might be named to consider it, but was overruled.

SPECULATION IN GRAIN IS GREAT TOTAL

Minneapolis, Feb. 20.—Reiterating his charge that ninety per cent of all grain sales in the United States are speculative, and that this volume of speculation results in tremendous expense and loss, borne eventually by the farmer, Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the United States Farm Board, yesterday replied to a challenge of his statement by the private grain trade of Minneapolis.

Mr. McKelvie was a speaker at the twenty-third annual convention of the Farmers' Elevator Association of Minnesota. In a statement to newspapers, Mr. McKelvie, formerly Governor of Nebraska, had declared the annual sales of wheat in the United States, through futures trading, were twenty-five times as great in the aggregate as the country's production of wheat.

GREAT LOSS
Twenty per cent of this volume of wheat sales represented "pure speculation," and cost the speculators from $20,000,000 up in commissions or fees, he asserted. The speculation, he said, involved a loss of not less than $200,000,000 a year to those who engaged in it, and both the costs and the loss were charged indirectly against the farmers who produced the wheat.

"If the grain trade is not speculative or making speculation possible," he asked Mr. McKelvie, "People speculate partly because of the enormous, distorted and misleading information that is circulated as to grain production and marketing."

"If speculation is necessary, as the grain trade claims, the country has a right to know what it costs. We charge that commissions and losses from speculation amount to twenty-five cents a bushel on all wheat raised in this country. And the farmers are bearing the costs of our present marketing systems."

FIGHT BETWEEN TWO WILD HORSES. FEATURE OF FILM

A thrilling, spectacular production is the current attraction at the Columbia Theatre. It is "King of the Mounties," Dominion's colorful film starring Rex, King of Wild Horses.

No description of the picture could be complete without mentioning the remarkable fight between two horses. The scene was accorded a great reception at the first showing here. The house also thrilled at the great drama built up around Rex, the leader of a wild horse herd.

JANET GAYNOR AS DUTCH GIRL IN "CHRISTINA"

Janet Gaynor once again scores a decided hit with her speaking characterization in "Christina," Fox Movietone talking feature which is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Her work as the little Dutch girl whose belief in the charming of her choice Charles Morton and Rudolph Schildkraut, in the chief supporting roles, render outstanding audible performances. William K. Howard's direction is up to his usual high standard.

GRENADIERS' CHORUS IN "LOVE PARADE" FEATURE NUMBER

One hundred male voices were tested recently at the Paramount Hollywood sound stage for the Grenadiers' chorus sequence of the first original musical romance, "The Love Parade," which is playing at the Dominion Theatre all this week. They were recruited from church choirs, vocal schools, from the Los Angeles Grand Opera Company and from the stage.

They sing the Grenadiers' chorus with Jeanette MacDonald, leading lady of "The Love Parade," who plays the part of the Queen of Sylvania. Maurice Chevalier, star of "Innocents of Paris" is starred in "The Love Parade."

McLEOD PLAYERS PRESENT "ROTTERS" HERE NEXT WEEK

"Interference," the drama at the Royal Theatre this week, is one of the finest performances which the Gordon McLeod Players have produced here. In this absorbing story of love and jealousy full scope is given the leading characters to show their talent to the best advantage. Ernest Bodkin, Gordon McLeod, Lilian Christine and Margaret St. Barbe-West all fill their roles unusually well.

Next week another comedy will be offered. It is entitled "The Rotters," and tells the story of a Lancashire family which is supposed to be highly respectable, but have its little failings just like other people. James McGrath, stage director of the company, will play the leading part of John Clugston, the self-made, purse-proud father of the family. Claude Bailey will again be seen in a part where his fine presence and charming voice will be of great value. Lilian Christine will appear as a Lancashire girl, Roland Gillett and Margaret St. Barbe-West as other young people, and Maude Blye as the vain and foolish mother, with Ann Farrer as the "strange lady," complete the cast.

LAVISH COMEDY PRODUCTION WILL BE SHOWN HERE

A talking, singing, dancing musical comedy sensation produced on a lavish scale with an all-star cast will be seen at the Playhouse Theatre next week. It is "Broadway Scandals," a Columbia production, with Sally O'Neil, Jack Egan, Carmel Myers and Doris Dawson. Infectious song hits, comedy, gorgeous costumes and wonderful dancing make this picture a joy to the ear and the eye. The love romance behind this carnival of dance and song will grip you with its beauty and tenderness.

NEW RAILWAY LINE FOR PEACE IS DISCUSSED

Edmonton, Feb. 19.—If the Canadian National or Canadian Pacific Railway Company jointly or individually will undertake to build a new northern line giving the much desired Peace River outlet to the British Columbia coast, information to that effect will be appreciated by the Legislature. Otherwise there is fairly good chance of the charter being granted to the Beaver Lodge-Northern River Railway Company, which is asking permission to construct a line through the Gray Pass, it was revealed here this morning.

The bill to incorporate the company was before the railway committee of the House and was given a thorough discussion, the outcome being that C.N.R. and C.P.R. officials are to be asked to attend a future sitting of the committee and state what objections, if any, and what intentions, if any, either or both of the transcontinental roads may have in the matter.
